REDS CLAIM PROOF DOWNED PLANE SPYING

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio claimed today that the Soviet government has proof to show that the American reconnaissance plane shot down July 1 invaded Soviet air space.

The English-language broadcast, beamed to North America, claimed that the RB-47 plane was equipped with guns and ammunition and was carrying "intelligence apparatus."

The broadcast seemed to indicate that the Russians had salvaged part of the RB-47 wreckage although it did not say so.

U.S. WARNING

Monroe Doctrine 'Alive'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States today again bluntly told Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to stay out of Latin-American affairs.

The state department, in a major foreign policy pronouncement cleared by the White House, declared that the Monroe Doctrine against European intervention in this hemisphere is just as alive as it ever was.

The statement struck at Khrushchev's threat to hit the United States with rockets if this country tried armed aggression in Cuba.

"This naked menace to world peace brandished by the Soviet leader reveals the hypocrisy of his protestations in behalf of peace," the statement said.

Khrushchev, at a press conference in Moscow Tuesday, declared that the Monroe Doctrine has "died."

PRINCIPLES VALID

The U.S. statement said, "the principles of the Monroe Doctrine are as valid today as they were in 1823 when the doctrine was proclaimed."

But it said the doctrine, proclaimed by President James Monroe, has become a hemisphere-wide policy through the Organization of American States charter and the 1947 Rio Pact in which hemisphere nations banded together against aggression.

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (UPI)—Fire destroyed an overcrowded insane asylum in downtown Guatemala City today, killing at least 225 persons and injuring 300 others.

The victims included 175 women and 50 men. Most were burned to death or asphyxiated.

The asylum, a government-run institution which was part of the general hospital of Guatemala City, had 1,600 mental patients. Its director, Jose A. Campos, had been complaining for some time that it was badly overcrowded.

CANDLE LEFT

The blaze broke out about 1 a.m. It was believed to have started in a sewing room where one of the less seriously ill patients may have left a burning candle.

It spread rapidly and raced from one to another of the seven big wards in the 40-year-old, one-storey, brick and cement building with a wooden roof. It was put out about two hours after it started.

It was believed most of the patients were asleep when the fire started, but they were awakened by other patients and the cries of injured victims.

DIVIDED

Each of the wards was divided into compartments and one section was filled with the hopelessly insane.

The institution was run by Roman Catholic nuns, and was manned by male and female nurses and doctors. As a security measure, the lay staff slept in quarters near the wards.

Only the night shift was on when the fire was discovered about 30 minutes after it started. Nurses, doctors and nuns promptly went into action to rescue their charges when the blaze started.

Battle Lines Drawn in UN On 'Aggression' Charges

By The Associated Press

A bitter United Nations battle between Russia and the United States seemed assured today over which of two great powers is responsible for threatening world peace.

The issue was sharply drawn Wednesday night when President Eisenhower accepted a Soviet challenge on U.S. aircraft flights and declared his determination to make a case "on the lawless actions and reckless threats of the Soviet government."

The challenge was hurled by the Soviet government when Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko a few hours earlier demanded an emergency session of the United Nations security council. In a cable to UN headquarters in New York he charged the U.S. Air Force with aggressive activities against Russia and said they constitute a threat to the peace of the world.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Eternal Father, Thou Who givest peace that passeth human understanding, grant that we, Thy children, may be instruments of peace in our daily living and never instruments of strife. We pray for Spirit-controlled lives that make us tolerant of one another's faults and keenly aware of our own. As Thou hast dealt mercifully with us, teach us to be merciful toward others. In Jesus' name we pray, Amen.

AIR TALKS CALLED OFF

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States today called off talks scheduled to begin here Monday with Russia on a U.S.-Soviet civil air agreement because of Moscow's intensified cold war attacks on the United States.

In a note delivered to the Soviet foreign office in Moscow today, the United States said "recent Soviet actions and utterances... could not fail to affect adversely the atmosphere surrounding such negotiations at this time."

ASSASSINATION BID

Kishi Misses Serious Injury

TOKYO (AP)—A rightist fanatic stabbed Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi six times in the left thigh with a hunting knife today.

Doctors said Kishi would be out of the hospital in 10 days, and his ruling Liberal Democratic party went ahead with plans to accept his resignation and elect Trade Minister Hayato Ikeda prime minister Friday.

Kishi was attacked at the prime minister's official residence as he drank "banzai" champagne toasts with party leaders in celebration of Ikeda's election earlier today to succeed him as party president. The party election was a preliminary to the government change which Kishi had promised after the controversial U.S.-Japan military treaty took effect last month.

Davis Cup Draw

QUEBEC (CP)—The draw for the two opening singles matches of the Davis Cup between Canada and the United States today pitted Canada's Bob Bedard against the United States' Don Fontana against Barry MacKay. The first match is Friday afternoon.

Bleeding profusely, Kishi was taken to a nearby hospital. A secretary said he was cracking jokes with visitors within an hour. One of his doctors said neither the artery nor the sciatic nerve were hit.

ASSAILANT ARRESTED

Police arrested the assailant, Daisuke Armaki, 65, a member of a small, unimportant rightist group. He refused to say why he had attacked the prime minister.

The attack on Kishi occurred just a month after another rightist stabbed and injured a prominent socialist, Jotaro Wakami, near the parliament building. The two attacks aroused fears that Japan is in for a revival of pre-war terrorism in which the notorious rightist "black dragon" society played a leading role.

Kishi is the fourth Japanese prime minister of the 20th century to be a terrorist victim. The others were Takashi Hara, fatally stabbed in 1921; Yuko Hamaguchi, wounded in 1930, and Tsuyoshi Inukai, assassinated by rebellious army officers in 1932.

In a statement from his vacation headquarters at Newport, R.I., Eisenhower said the U.S. is "ready and willing" to go to the security council for a full discussion of what he called the "wanton shooting down" by Russia of an RB-47 plane July 1.

About the time that the president's statement was being released at Newport, the navy said in Washington that a Russian trawler which cruised close to the Atlantic coast last April was an "electronic spy ship." (See page 32).

New Congo Riots; UN Force Rushed

Belgium Relations Broken Off

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo (UPI)—Riotous mobs rampaged through the streets of Leopoldville in a new orgy of looting and shooting today.

The new rampage by rebellious Congolese soldiers and jobless natives came as the United Nations moved to send in an international military force to restore peace and it was announced that the Republic of the Congo has broken diplomatic relations with Belgium.

The first UN troops were expected here shortly, perhaps in a couple of days. But Premier Moise Tshombe of Katanga Province announced that they will not be permitted to set foot there, since he has pulled Katanga out of the Congo Republic and declared it a sovereign state.

PATROL TOGETHER

Before the new outbreak of rioting, Belgian paratroopers and loyal Congolese soldiers had patrolled the city together under a "truce" arrangement designed to protect white Europeans from marauding natives until UN help arrives.

Dr. Ralph Bunche, UN delegate to the Republic of the Congo, told newsmen here this afternoon that the UN troops would arrive in the Congo within 48 hours.

"There will be four battalions in by the end of next week," he said.

The troops will be commanded by Gen. Karl Van Horn of Sweden, presently with the UN truce supervisory organization along the Israeli borders.

Bunche said Belgian troops will be withdrawn gradually as the United Nations contingent is built up. The contingent will consist of troops from Ghana, (French) Guinea, Mali and Tunisia.

DEFENSIVE ONLY

"The troops will have only defensive weapons and their trucks and equipment will be provided by their own nations," Bunche said.

The latest violence apparently stemmed from resentment over news that two Congolese soldiers were killed in fighting Belgian paratroopers Wednesday when the European forces seized Leopoldville and its airfield.

The rioters ran through the streets of the capital, firing in

Airlines Criticized

LONDON (Reuters)—Lord Brabazon of Tara, flying pioneer and chairman of the air registration board, today accused U.S., Canadian and Belgian airlines of indulging in "disgraceful practices" by using highly-inflammable fuel for their jet aircraft instead of the safer but more expensive kerosene. He did not name the lines.

LOS ANGELES — Democratic presidential nominee John F. Kennedy called on the old pro's of his party today to help him pick a vice-presidential running mate for "the most important election in the history of this country."

The 43-year-old Massachusetts senator launched a confident campaign for the White House within hours after winning the presidential nomination easily on the first ballot at the Democratic national convention Wednesday night.

Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri, one of his defeated rivals for top spot on the ticket, was a heavy favorite for the vice-presidential nod. But supporters of Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington said their man was still very much in the race.

Kennedy's lieutenants said that Govs. Orville L. Freeman of Minnesota, Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa and George D. Docking of Kansas also were "under consideration."

Kennedy's choice will be formally ratified by the delegates at tonight's convention session starting at 5 p.m. PDT.

"We shall carry the fight to the people and we shall win," the 43-year-old Kennedy said after he hurried to the convention hall to receive the adulation of a wildly cheering audience of some 19,000 persons and make a brief speech.

For Kennedy it was an easy walkaway.

It took 761 votes to win. Wyoming put Kennedy over the hump.

Far behind came the men who never really had a chance. Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, a wizard at controlling the senate as its majority leader, couldn't control the convention.

But the tall Texan took it gracefully. He said he accepted the decision of the convention "with all my heart."

DEMOCRATS GAVE VOTES. BUT NOT THEIR HEARTS

By MAX FREEDMAN
(Special to The Times)

LOS ANGELES — The nomination on the first ballot of Senator John Kennedy as the Democratic candidate for the president of the United States marks the climax of the most intensive campaign in American politics.

Four years ago, after a brief and rather haphazard campaign, he lost the vice-presidential nomination to Senator Kefauver by less than 30 votes. He determined in the hour of defeat that he would seek the presidential nomination in 1960 and would begin to work for it immediately. His triumph on the first ballot was his deserved reward.

Senator Kennedy always told his friends that it would be easier to defeat Mr. Nixon in the presidential campaign than it would be to win the Democratic nomination.

His status as a political prophet certainly compels respect. He leaves this convention with the credentials of party leadership in his resolute hands.

What is more, he has a national organization already equipped and eager for the national campaign. These are significant assets.

Yet Senator Kennedy even in his moment of triumph has reason for uneasiness. He can sense that he has won the votes but not the hearts of the delegates. His nomination was received with less than overwhelming enthusiasm.

He has a genius for winning elections and that is why he has become the presidential candidate; but he has not yet touched the generous emotions

NEW YORK — One woman, 24 dogs and five cats are not too many occupants for a two-room apartment, ruled the magistrate. He went and saw for himself.

The one woman is Mrs. Helen Lopez, 49, who got bored with studying dentistry, then with running beauty parlors, and finally decided she could be happiest raising dogs.

But an agent from the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals decided that 29 pets in two rooms were too many, and took Mrs. Lopez into court. He also charged her with failing to have licenses for most of her pedigreed toy poodles.

After listening to Mrs. Lopez' lawyer, Magistrate Walter Bayer paid her a visit.

He found the place in good shape, well ventilated, and the dogs "well fed and happy."

DANVILLE, Ill.—The Russell Cooks have their family baseball team. Their ninth son was born Saturday. And if there is ever a need to call in a pinch hatter, there's Cook's son by a previous marriage. Physicians who attended Mrs. Cook, 28, in St. Elizabeth's Hospital, quoted odds of $9,000 to 1 against No. 9 being a boy.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—The director of the Miss Universe Pageant, his heart captured by a click of Miss Spain's castanets, announced Wednesday he and the beauty from Madrid are engaged.

"She has accepted my oriental sapphire ring with two diamond baguettes," said Robert H. Oliver, 34, associated with the pageant since it began in 1952.

"I liked him from the very first," said Maria Teresa Del Rio, 21, a ballerina whose father was killed in the Spanish civil war before she was born.

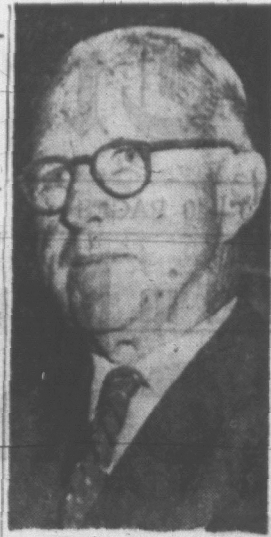

The 13-day courtship was climaxed with a formal engagement party Wednesday afternoon in the Poodle Room of Miami Beach's Fontainebleau Hotel.

EDMONTON — Enough proved far too much on Tuesday for a baby-sitting bingo-widower.

With the regular Tuesday session going at a downtown parlor, the irate father thundered into the ante room of the establishment shortly after the session had started and plunked three sleepy-eyed youngsters on the coat check counter, saying, "I've had enough, you can check them with the hats."

The proprietor of the bingo house had some trouble finding the errant mother, but after calling for her from the stage eventually got embarrassed response.

Senate Rejects Petition Move

OTTAWA (CP)—A defiant Senate turned down Wednesday night the government's proposal to petition the United Kingdom Parliament for an age limit of 75 on county, district and superior court judges.

It fundamentally altered the government-sponsored resolution by striking out all references to district and county judges. In so doing the predominantly Liberal upper house presented the government with what most observers agreed was a most embarrassing problem.

One informed source said the administration had been placed "in an invidious and untenable position" by the unprecedented Senate action. The resolution has already been passed by the Commons.

The resolution called on the British Parliament to write into the British North America Act a provision that judges of the three courts must retire at 75. A parade of Liberal Senators attacked it as a retrograde step damaging to Canadian autonomy.

COULD DO THAT NOW

They argued that Canada already had the power to retire district and county court judges at 75. It had been doing this under the Judges Act of 1913.

The government, on the other hand, felt there was some question as to the validity of the age limit as set out in the Judges Act. Justice Minister Fulton said the provinces agreed to the course of action proposed by the government. Senator David Croll (L-Ontario), who proposed the amendment, said: "The doubtful Thomases in the justice department must not be allowed to write our constitution."

One source said the government may accept the Senate amendment and change its Commons resolution to conform. The government's main objective was to have the judges of the three courts retire at 75.

There was widespread agreement, however, that for the government to do this would be to accept a humiliating defeat.

CRUSHED IN COMMONS

When a similar amendment was proposed by the Liberals in the Commons, the Conservatives marshalled their overwhelming majority to reject it.

A constitutional authority said that as an alternative to submitting a revised resolution to the Commons, the government might ask the Senate for a conference to consider ways of reconciling the two positions.

B.C. FRYERS ARE NOW AT THE PEAK OF PERFECTION

Tender, young B.C. chicken is an excellent dietary source of protein. Low in fat because they are young, B.C. frying chickens are among the most easily digested meats and certainly one of the most delicious.

AN IMPORTANT B.C. INDUSTRY

The poultry farmers of British Columbia are independent business men striving to produce the finest poultry and eggs at the lowest possible prices. They contribute over $30,000,000 a year to the economy of our province but their importance cannot be measured in dollars alone. Poultry farming is a vital part of our agricultural industry and B.C. poultry products are among the best in the world.

B.C. GOVERNMENT

HON. NEWTON P. STEACY, MINISTER OF AGRICULTURE

VARIATIONS ON A CHICKEN THEME

You could easily serve frying chicken every week in the year and yet never serve the same dish twice. Every country in the world has its own way with frying chicken, and the strange thing is that no two use quite the same method.

England - Dip chicken in egg and bread crumbs. Fry in deep fat. Serve with rice potatoes and salad.

Hungary - Lightly fry chicken pieces. In same fat fry several chopped onions. Sprinkle generously with paprika. Return chicken to pan, cover and finish cooking.

Italy - Mix olive oil, with almost as much lemon juice. Add oregano, parsley, chopped garlic, pepper and salt. Brush chicken generously and broil. Brush occasionally to prevent drying. Pour balance of liquid over chicken and serve very hot.

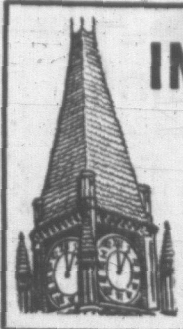

France - Brown cut-up chicken in butter. Add 1/2 cup dry white wine, 1/2 cup consommé, little tomato puree, and a teaspoon of tarragon. Simmer covered until cooked. Can be finished in oven.

India - Brown onions and garlic, then chicken. Add curry, chilli powder and ginger, and fry. Add tomatoes and simmer all together until chicken is tender.

Hawaii - Fry chicken. In same pan fry drained pineapple chunks. Add enough juice to make sauce. Serve sauce separately or with chicken.

China - Fry chicken. Serve with sweet and sour sauce and boiled rice.

B.C. Poultry and Eggs are one of your most economical sources of best quality protein. There's value in every plump turkey from little five pounders to mammoth holiday birds. And don't forget the wonderful versatility of B.C. Fresh Eggs. There are enough ways to serve them to fill a cook book and from impressive soufflés to a delicious soft-boiled egg, there's not one bit of waste.

IN PARLIAMENT

Broadcast Governors Given a Rough Time
(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA — The Board of Broadcast Governors underwent a baptism of fire in the Commons Wednesday with reflection on its independence and criticism of its TV licensing recommendations.

The board was given a rough mauling at the hands of Liberal and CCF speakers but Revenue Minister Nowlan, who reports to Parliament on broadcasting matters, entered a spirited defence of the two-year-old regulatory body.

Mr. Nowlan, maintaining that the board is free from political influence of any kind, found himself sharply at odds with opposition speakers on all the following charges:

1. The board's recommendation of licensing TV applicants with non-Canadian financial backing represented a departure from the principle of Canadian ownership of the air waves.

2. The board had made a dangerous departure from previous policy in recommending licensing of a TV station controlled by the Toronto Telegram when there were non-newspaper applicants of equal merit ready to operate a Toronto outlet.

3. Political payoffs to supporters of the Progressive Conservative government seemed implicit in recommendations for the licensing of TV stations at Toronto and Halifax.

Besides these expressed and implied criticisms from Lionel Chevrier (L-Montreal Laurier) and J. W. Pickersgill (L-Bona-venture-Twillingate) the broadcasting debate during study of the BBG's 1960-61 spending plans ranged over a variety of related matters.

Mr. Pickersgill suggested the government and the board go slow on authorizing the establishment of a private television network to compete with the publicly-owned CBC whose revenues might suffer.

'Punch In the Nose' for Violators

Douglas Fisher (CCF-Port Arthur) called for a "punch on the nose" instead of a slap on the wrist for private broadcasters who break the BBG's broadcasting regulations.

Mr. Nowlan said Mr. Chevrier was misinformed in stating one-third of the ownership of the successful Ottawa applicant—E. L. Bushnell Television Company—was held by Britain's Granada TV network and National Telefilm Association Incorporated of New York.

The voting-share ownership was 24.9 per cent with non-Canadian interests, below the BBG requirement of no more than 25 per cent foreign ownership.

Both Mr. Chevrier and Mr. Pickersgill repeatedly referred to Conservative connections of those recommended for licensing—Finlay Macdonald of radio station CJCH who is concerned in the Halifax application and the Toronto Telegram in Toronto.

Mr. Nowlan categorically denied their implication of a political payoff, arguing their suggestion wouldn't hold water since unsuccessful applicants in Edmonton and Ottawa included prominent Conservatives — among them M. Gratton O'Leary, president of the Ottawa Journal.

Mr. Nowlan agreed that too much newspaper control of information media is undesirable but rejected any suggestion this should bar newspapers from ever getting TV licences.

A federal-provincial program to assist Canada's marginal farming areas was urged Wednesday by the special Senate committee on land use.

"There is a need of elimination of problem areas in Canada where farm businesses are small, productivity low and incomes inadequate for family requirements," the committee said in a report tabled in the Senate.

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—Peter Ho., of Dartmouth, captured the 72-hole Nova Scotia amateur golf championship Wednesday with an eight-over-par 280. Veteran Rex Joudrey, of Halifax, was second with 285.

Canada Demands Veto On A-Arms Use—PM

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated today in the Commons that Canada must have a veto over use of American nuclear warheads on Canadian soil before it will accept them in this country.

He said Canada is asking the United States for the same right of joint control as the United Kingdom has in connection with American nuclear warheads stored in Britain.

Replying to Opposition Leader Pearson and CCF House leader Hazen Argue, the prime minister said that if and when nuclear weapons are acquired for Canadian forces they will not be used "except as the Canadian government decides and in the manner approved by the Canadian government."

RETAIN OWNERSHIP

He said such an arrangement with the U.S. would constitute "joint control" because the U.S. would retain ownership of the warheads and their use would require the authorization of the U.S. president.

Mr. Diefenbaker mentioned "joint control" for the first time July 6. Before that he had referred only to "Canadian control."

Today he again used the phrase "joint control." The prime minister said "joint control" would be consistent with the view he expressed in the Commons Feb. 20, 1959, that the spread of nuclear weapons should be limited.

Mr. Argue asked whether the government has considered keeping nuclear weapons out of Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the conditions under which joint control could be achieved would have to be determined first. When that point was reached, the international situation, which now was "very grave," would have to be considered.

U.S. Defence Secretary Thomas Gates told a press conference here Wednesday following a two-day meeting of the Canada-U.S. cabinet defence committee that arrangements for provision of American nuclear warheads for Canadian Bomarc bases should be completed by the time the sites are ready.

The sites for the anti-aircraft missile are scheduled to be ready late next year but the bases are not expected to become operational until 1962 or perhaps 1963.

Mr. Gates said he assumes there could be "dual" Canada-U.S. control similar to Anglo-American control over American nuclear weapons based in the United Kingdom.

But he also said that American nuclear weapons "must remain under U.S. control. Firing of these weapons could be done only by order of the U.S. president."

The prime minister of Canada "would of course be consulted," he added after some prompting by his cabinet colleague, Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson.

The Democrats' Choice

IN CHOOSING SENATOR Kennedy as its candidate for President the Democratic Party has taken grave risks and aroused great hopes. The political risks are Mr. Kennedy's religion and his youth which may repel many voters. On the other hand it is a hopeful sign when the majority party, disregarding an old taboo, nominates a Roman Catholic and entrusts its future to a young man representing a new generation of statesmen.

The decision of the Los Angeles convention represents a transfer of power from one generation to another, from men born in the nineteenth century to those born in the twentieth. The same will be true of the Republican Party if, as seems almost certain, it nominates Mr. Nixon. These two men together will express the sentiments of a new age in American history.

The first ballot at Los Angeles instantly revealed two facts: Senator Kennedy's remarkable combination of ability, courage, organization and money had completely sewed up the nomination in advance; but it had also antagonized a large, perhaps vital minority and some of the most powerful men in the party.

Thus the immediate problem before Mr. Kennedy will be to heal what appears as a serious party schism. He must earn, as he has not yet earned, the confidence of such men as Senator Johnson, Mr. Speaker Rayburn, Mr. Adlai Stevenson and many others who are essential to him in the campaign now beginning. He must reunite a divided party if he is to expand its strength beyond the legislature into the executive.

His first test, therefore, will not be in the contest with Mr. Nixon but in the leadership of the quarrelsome Democrats. Mr. Kennedy has shown an extraordinary political talent so far by breaking the unwritten rule against Catholic candidates for the first time since the nomination of the late Mr. Alfred Smith in 1928. He may be expected to give his party not merely the vigor of youth but also a generous capacity to reconcile his Democratic opponents, and like the late Franklin Roosevelt in his early days, a genius of practical politics, a sure sense of compromise.

But the triumph in his own party does not assure his election by any means. A man of equal talents apparently will lead the Republicans without any serious breach in the party ranks. At this point the public opinion polls indicate that Mr. Nixon has a slightly larger national support than Mr. Kennedy, despite the recent disasters of the Republican Administration.

These are early days, however. No one can foresee the decision of the American people in November when the world and the domestic situation may have changed drastically. By then the nation will have judged the two brilliant young men who, between them, hold the immediate future of the United States and must deeply affect the future of the entire world.

At all events, we shall soon be watching one of the most vigorous and decisive elections of modern times as the new generation takes charge.

Mr. 'Tom' Parsons

THE SUDDEN DEATH OF MR. T. W. S. "Tom" Parsons, until his retirement in 1947 commissioner of British Columbia's Provincial Police, has come as a shock to hosts of friends here and throughout the province. On the streets of Victoria a day or two before his passing he had appeared to be enjoying the excellent health with which he had been blessed throughout an active life.

As an officer and head of the force in which he took particular pride, "Tom" Parsons had been the symbol and embodiment of the Provincial Police spirit. He had become its chief through merit, proving himself in the remote areas of the province, among Indians who became his friends and among the hardy, pioneer folk who respected him for his forthright, friendly manner and efficient attention to duty.

Upon his retirement he demonstrated his lifelong concern for youth by taking the post of commissioner of the Boy Scouts Association of British Columbia and, for a time, lent his administrative talents to the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Here, and throughout the province he knew so well, tribute is paid today to the memory of a gallant officer, a man of soldierly bearing and courteous manner.

Better Bill of Rights

NOW THAT THE BILL OF Rights has been accepted in principle by all parties in Parliament some of its details can be improved. Three improvements have been suggested by Mr. Pearson and the Government would be wise to accept them.

They are designed to protect the basic rights of Canadians in time of war, when the War Measures Act is in force. Under this omnibus statute a wartime government can do virtually anything, as it must, but Mr. Pearson would forbid it specifically to deprive any citizen of his citizenship or to banish or exile a citizen under any circumstances. In addition, Mr. Pearson urges some limits on the government's absolute power to detain citizens during a war.

As a leading official of a wartime government, Mr. Pearson knows as well as anyone that when the nation is in danger of conquest the state must have sufficient power to save it. The supreme law, as the Roman dictum puts it, is the safety of the state. Nevertheless, these powers should not be abused and the Bill of Rights can prevent such abuse, at least in some respects touching the ordinary citizen.

The Bill of Rights is highly imperfect for reasons already outlined here. It can be amended or revoked by any future Parliament. It does not cover any abridgement of civil liberties under provincial jurisdiction. But within these limitations Mr. Diefenbaker doubtless wishes to make it as useful as he can. In a great issue above partisanship he should welcome Mr. Pearson's advice.

Too Many Too Fat

TOO MANY CANADIAN BOYS, says Lord Montgomery, are too fat.

Some of them are. Several are quite as plump as many English schoolboys whose excess pounds bulge the waistbands of their short trousers.

Canadian schoolboys have no monopoly on this characteristic, but even if the complaint is intercontinental, the point Lord Montgomery makes is sound.

He thinks they are suffering from too little exercise, too little participation in games, too ill-defined a physical program in schools and too ready an inclination to be spectators rather than participants in sport.

This is the observation of a soldier who packs very little excess baggage under the skin which covers his spare frame.

We in Canada can do two things about it. We can spring indignantly to the defence of our young people—as we usually do with all sorts of rationalization. Or we can pay a little more attention, as individual parents, to the physical condition of our sons.

There is no lack of opportunity in this country for a youngster to play games. But many of the younger generation, perhaps copying their elders, won't stir themselves to the point of participating. Maybe parents might nudge them toward such activity. Even a fat boy can be moved if he is nudged enough.

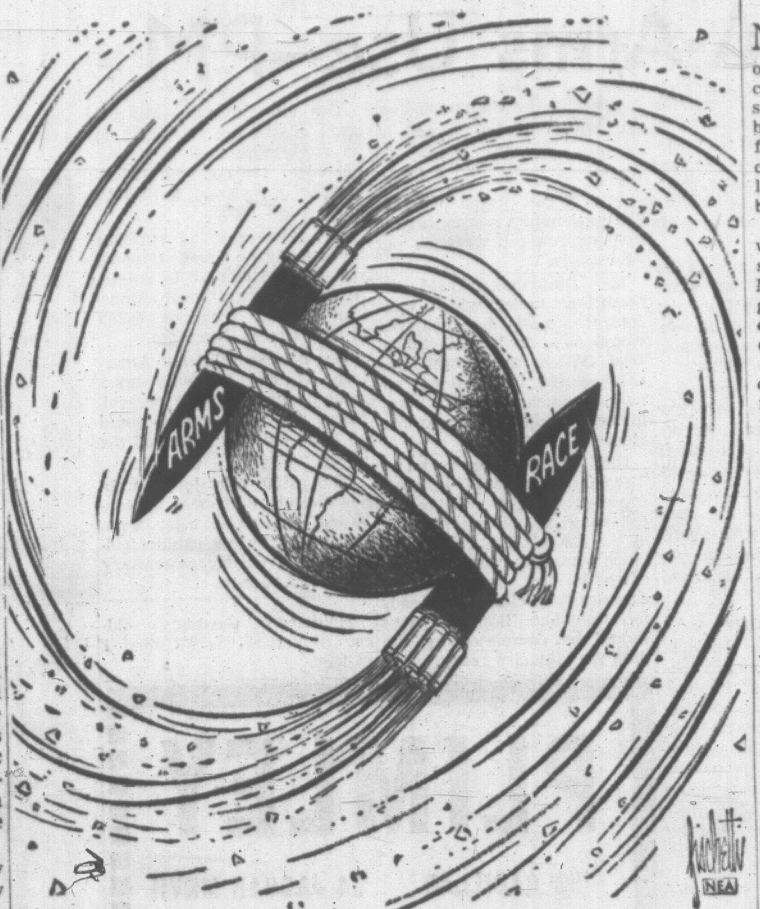

Call the Inhalator

THE QUESTION OF VICTORIA's centennial balloons has again been raised—and it is obvious that the question rises much more easily than the balloons ever did. Apart from selling them, which seems to be a job beyond anyone's ability, two alternative solutions might be considered.

Seven years from now Canada will be celebrating its centenary. If we started blowing now, surely we could have all the balloons ready in time. Or if this failed, it will be only 98 years before British Columbia again has a centennial anniversary, and surely in 98 years.

It's a thought anyway, a nice, airy one.

LOOSE ENDS

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

The Acadians Return

THE recent news dispatches announcing that Mr. Louis Robichaud, an Acadian, has been elected premier of New Brunswick should be read with another, forgotten dispatch of September 17, 1758. On that day Colonel James Murray wrote to his commander, General James Wolfe announcing that all the Acadians had been driven forever from the land now called New Brunswick.

"I am persuaded," said Murray, "that there is not now a French man in the River Miramichi and it will be our fault if they are ever allowed to settle there again."

WITH that comfortable assurance, Wolfe moved on from Louisbourg to capture Quebec. But Murray, a gallant soldier, turned out to be a poor prophet. His prophecy is finally repealed when an Acadian, descendant of those original settlers, becomes leader of New Brunswick's Government.

The Acadians are back on the Miramichi, they form about half of New Brunswick's population and not long from now will outnumber the English-speaking stock. In the irony of time the French Canadians have always held a special place.

For some odd reason—mostly, perhaps, because Longfellow heard of them, secondhand, in Boston and invented Evangeline—history has paid more attention to the Acadians of Nova Scotia than to those of New Brunswick.

EVERY school boy knows about the great Expulsion from Minas Basin and the modern traveller sees on the Bay of Fundy the villages of the Acadians who returned from exile. But the real triumph of these people was achieved across the Bay in New Brunswick, so quietly that it has hardly been noticed by most Canadians. Only when a man of French descent heads New Brunswick's Government does the nation begin to suspect a miracle unique in America.

Gauged by numbers, of course, the miracle of the French Canadians in Quebec is much larger but it is quite different and, until recent times, was entirely separate.

THE French Canadians were never expelled from the St. Lawrence. Their conquerors' notion that they could be absorbed into an English culture barely outlasted Lord Durham's otherwise sensible Report. The Acadians, on the other hand, had to start from nothing—a handful of nameless refugees clinging to their remote clearings in the forest, apparently submerged forever by the northward tide of United Empire Loyalists.

As was inevitable, the solid French population of Quebec clashed with the solid English-speaking bloc of Ontario and left on our Canadian history those scars unhealed until our time, perhaps not quite healed even yet. There were no such clashes in New Brunswick and no scars.

IN retrospect, the opposite experience of the two provinces is easily explained. The French Canadians of Quebec were confronted with a sudden challenge by a people determined to absorb them and they reacted, naturally enough, with bitterness and sometimes with violence.

The Acadians, having no friends, even in distant Quebec, and no particular enemies, evidently doomed as a race and almost ignored by the Loyalists, took their time. They had plenty of it. Time was their secret.

While the Loyalists were building what they expected to be the most British colony of the Empire, they paid no attention to the little pockets of Acadian settlements here and there in the bush. Unlike the French-Canadians of Quebec, the Acadians never felt themselves to be under siege or in any danger, they played no part in early politics and went silently about their business.

AS a notable but little-noticed crucible of race in a world demented by racial fury, New Brunswick has taught, or surely have taught, Canada an invaluable lesson. Given two peaceful centuries to understand each other's ways, the races of the once Loyalist province have learned to live together. The election of an Acadian as premier is purely a political and happily not a racial event and that is why (regardless of partisan politics) it must be regarded as a highly significant event in Canadian history.

How would Ontario regard the emergence of a French Canadian majority? How would Quebec react to an English-speaking majority? The results are not difficult to imagine. In New Brunswick, however, the racial balance shifts slowly, inexorably, without a tremor. If it possessed anything like these peoples' good sense and good will, the world would not be contemplating suicide today.

As Our Readers See It

War Deferrent?

The usual argument for the present arms build-up is that while we wait peace, Soviet Russia doesn't—at least she can't be trusted. So we must arm ourselves enough to deter her from possible aggression against us or our allies.

That Soviet Russia is equally determined to deter us we know but wonder why she won't trust us—take at face value our peace protestations. But should we continue to wonder when such a supposedly representative organ of opinion as the U.S. News and World Report in its June 27 issue highlights in big black print that "the U-2 must fly again?"

For if, as indicated by the above, the spy-planes do fly again, naturally they will be shot down and their bases probably destroyed, too, ensuring a perfect alibi for the "massive retaliation" long threatened, and then—what price deterrents?

Now, in the light of recent events we can understand why the noted American thinker, Dr. Lewis Mumford, wrote as he did in the October number of the Atlantic Monthly, on "The Morals of Extinction." In his article Dr. Mumford states "Since 1945, the American government has devoted the better part of our national energies to preparation for wholesale human extermination."

How can Canada even seriously attempt to carry out her role of Peace-maker as suggested in James M. Minifie's "Peacemaker or Powder-Monkey" when she is committed to participation in any United States major war regardless of right or wrong, regardless of any morals other than those of human extermination?

Words and Warning

NOTHING at the Democratic National convention has been more artificial or more contrived than the debate on civil rights. Neither side meant what it said. Northern Democrats cannot really believe that the brave words on the platform will end racial discrimination nor can the southern Democrats really believe that their way of life is going to be destroyed by Washington.

Northern and southern Democrats were merely talking to their own constituents and talking for the record. Many national conventions will come and go before the Negro minority has entered into the complete protection of equal citizenship.

The result of the debate was a trivial exercise in political evasion. There was not even a recorded vote to show how the various delegations feel on this great issue. The whole matter was settled quite casually on a shouted voice vote. Since the protesting 10 southern states could not possibly raise as big a shout as the 39 northern states, they went down to inevitable defeat. Texas was not asked to sign the southern manifesto because no one wanted to embarrass Senator Lyndon Johnson in his search for the presidential nomination.

No Walkout

When the debate had ended the southern delegates made no effort to leave the convention in protest against northern domination. They were satisfied to warn the convention that the civil rights platform will make it much harder to carry the solid south for the Democratic party. The acknowledged victor is the National Association for the Advancement of Colored people. Two years ago it announced that its major goal is to have every southern school district begin to comply with the Supreme Court's decision against school segregation by 1963, the hundredth anniversary of Lincoln's emancipation proclamation. This exact pledge is now part of the Democratic platform.

In labor legislation the power of the trade unions has been as absolute as the triumph of Negro leaders in civil rights. The platform will be searched in vain for one syllable to suggest that the huge power of the modern trade union movement in itself raises problems for a free and equal society. Instead the entire emphasis of the program falls on giving yet greater authority to trade unions.

The third major pressure group at a Democratic convention is the farm movement, and it too found it easy to write its dogmas and its hopes into the platform.

The Democrats were more eager to promise everything to every group than they were to add up the total cost in higher taxes. They advance the vague case that the cost can be met out of the greater growth of the economy, without explaining how the mere election of a Democratic president will achieve this result.

For Canadians there is both assurance and warning in the trade program. The Democrats place great emphasis on reciprocal trade. They welcome more imports. They prefer to pay compensation to regions and industries hurt by foreign competition rather than to impose restrictions on imports. They clearly prefer to co-operate with the Common Market in Western Europe, although they also promise to work with the Outer Seven and pledge themselves to seek ways to end the economic division of Europe and the formation of discriminatory trade blocks.

Threat to Canada

With the utmost emphasis the Democratic party pledges itself to make for greater use of the farm surplus to advance the larger causes of American foreign policy. This threat to Canada is not removed by the familiar pledge to avoid interference with normal commercial markets in wheat disposal.

Even with present dangerous tensions with Russia, the Democrats, remembering their unhappy past, find it easier to be sensible about the Soviet Union than about China.

Their platform is unyielding on Formosa, expresses "determined opposition" to China's admission to the United Nations, and declares that normal diplomatic relations with China are "impossible" under present conditions. After making the traditional and commonplace arguments against Russia, the Democratic platform emphasizes the importance and indeed the necessity of continued negotiations with Russia, especially on disarmament.

In an ambitious but ambiguous passage the Democratic platform in discussing NATO proposes "a broader partnership that goes beyond our common fears, to recognize the depth and sweep of our common political, economic and cultural interests." These are big words but they hide small ideas. Not one of the presidential candidates had the smallest notion of how these shining pledges could be converted into brave deeds.

FROM WASHINGTON

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Containing Castro

MORE and more, the Castro government has been acting as if it were trying to provoke the United States into armed intervention. It has refrained, thanks be, from jeopardizing American lives. But short of that, it is doing everything which would in the past have meant a landing of the Marines, the seizure of Havana, and the ouster of the Castro government. It is seizing American property without compensation. It is inciting hatred against us all over the hemisphere. It is making deals carrying political implications with the Soviet Union, which is a non-American great power, and it is engaged in incitement and intrigue in several of the Caribbean nations.

Bound By Treaty

At one time, until before the Second World War, Castro's behavior would surely have provoked intervention by the United States. Yet it has not provoked it, and the reason is that we have signed a treaty with the other American states which most explicitly prohibits armed intervention. Particularly unilateral intervention, in the old manner. The Charter of the Organization of American States says in Article 15 that "no state or group of states has the right to intervene, directly or indirectly, for any reason whatever, in the internal or external affairs of any other state." This charter, which is a treaty signed by the President, and ratified by the Senate, disarms the United States in dealing with Castro. What is more, so long as only property and propaganda but not lives are at stake, most of the governments and people of this hemisphere, virtually all of Asia and Africa, and the greater part of Europe, would sympathize with Castro if the United States intervened. For them the intervention would be, as people say, a "Hungary in reverse."

There is no doubt that Castro is fully aware of the fact that under the treaty as now established, and in the present climate of American and world opinion, he enjoys a high degree of immunity in what he does to the United States, Britain and other foreign property owners and in what he says in his propaganda campaign.

The critical question, it seems to me, is this: Is Castro using this immunity to armed intervention in order to focus the revolutionary zeal of the Cuban masses on the hated foreigners while he is carrying out the expropriation of foreign and middle-class property in Cuba? Or is there a more sinister and alien intention, which goes far beyond the Cuban revolution itself? Are there men behind Castro who are trying to provoke the United States into a catastrophic intervention which would ruin its reputation in this hemisphere and in the whole uncommitted world of Asia and Africa?

In other words, are we faced with a Cuban revolution in the island of Cuba or with a gambit, in which Cuba is only a pawn, in a vast international action?

There is as yet no decisive evidence which enables us to be sure of the answers to these questions. But, given what we know, it is clear, I think, that we must not allow ourselves to be provoked into armed intervention with the military occupation of Cuba. The loss of property and the annoyance of Castro's propaganda are small things compared with the disaster of having to use the Marines and the army to crush a popular revolution.

Arms Embargo

Nor should we expect much from economic retaliation, such as in the sugar quota. Castro will not fall because of this. For he can undoubtedly count on the support of the Soviet Union, and we are quite powerless to prevent the Soviet Union from aiding him. We are giving aid to too many countries on the frontier of the Soviet Union to be able to object if a country on our frontier gets aid from the Soviet Union.

The point to which we can address ourselves is Castro's own intervention in the internal affairs of his neighbors around the Caribbean. We can do virtually nothing on our own. For, except in defence of American lives, we have signed away the right of unilateral action in this hemisphere. But joined with a few other liberal American states, say with Brazil, Mexico, Colombia, and Venezuela, we could—without intervening in Cuba—work out measures to contain and to quarantine the Cuban revolution within the island of Cuba.

Ambassador Berle, who has a rich and deep knowledge of the hemisphere, favors a system for the control of the traffic in arms. This system of control would be set up, preferably by the Organization of American States. This, he argues, is in accord with the treaty of Rio de Janeiro, which provides that armed attack against one American state is an attack against all of them. Control of the arms traffic to and from Cuba, which, of course, would not be a general blockade, might do much to dampen down Castro's adventures in intervention outside of Cuba. It might do enough to enable the American states to sit out the Cuban revolution by containing it.

Pardon My Nasal Accent

SINCE coming home from "Our Trip," Pat and I have read a Saturday Evening Post piece and a Hal Boyle newspaper story discussing some of the things Americans do and say that offend their European hosts.

A little sadly I confess commission of some of the same crimes. It isn't much satisfaction to know that we avoided stigmatizing Canadians because most people we met in Europe took us for Americans. They say our mode of speech is nasal. Anyone with a nasal tone is American.

Stott

We have been confused by foreign currency—not unkindly, I think some of the Italian notes look like badly used wrapping paper. We have longed, audibly, for a glass of ice water. Not that the beverages of the countries we visited are without merit, but wine, taken continually, makes the average Canadian thirsty. It has other effects, also, which don't always endear the bibber to the people who serve it.

We have longed for baths where they were hard to come by. We have not always enjoyed native dishes of high repute. And we have thought things about European coffee and French breakfasts that can't be printed in a home paper.

Perhaps we were extrovert enough to communicate our opinions on such subjects. If we were, then we were ungracious, undiplomatic and unwise. For every little irritation—and they occur just as frequently at home as abroad—there were 10 attractions.

We thought almost everything was wonderful. Not the coffee, though—but let's not sling mud.

I suppose the first rule for amicable relations between a tourist and a native emphasizes the point that the tourist is a guest in the country. He visits and should show his host a decent respect.

There may be a point in the argument that the tourist also happens to be a paying guest and should be entitled to some respect himself. Usually he gets it. When he isn't shown the consideration he expects, when he thinks he isn't getting value for his money, he might just as well accept the treatment philosophically. He can't win, anyhow. And in most cases he is given the reception he invites by his own attitude.

However well intentioned, he runs the danger of tripping over local custom, usage or tradition. He'll find, for instance, that strangers living in some regions aren't hep to what he considers good-natured kidding. Kidding is pretty dangerous, particularly when the visitor isn't competent in the language of the locality.

And, in the course of a long tour, he can expect to be clipped at least once—just as he can expect to be clipped if he goes into the wrong places in his home town. Anyone, feeling courageous and a little naughty-naughty, who goes into a certain type of Paris night club can be sure he won't have to wait for the hereafter before he receives the bill for his vicarious sin. It's presented by the waiter before he gets out. So the bill's a lot more than he thinks it should be. So why did he go there in the first place and what did he expect?

If he lets that experience spoil his whole enjoyment of a trip to Paris, or writes the visit off as a bum deal just because some waiter argued that he didn't get a big enough tip, he's defeating himself.

If he doesn't want to live dangerously he doesn't have to. And if he leaves a Parisian night club heavy in the head and very light in the pocketbook, next day he'll understand with converse reflection that virtue is its own reward. There's a price for that knowledge, too.

These are points of friction which the experienced traveller—or the one who does his homework on travelling before he starts—avoids. I wasn't experienced. I hadn't done my homework. I fell into the errors that can offend citizens of a host country, though I tried not to.

It seems to me that the citizens of a host country should, and frequently do, look with compassion on the mistakes such as I make through ignorance. And it seems to me, also, that maybe I should make more allowances than I, and a lot of others, make for visitors who come here, unaware of our local prejudices, customs and sensitivities. There isn't one in a thousand of them who are offensive for the pure joy of being offensive.

4 New Directorates For Civil Service

OTTAWA (CP)—Sweeping changes in the internal make-up of the civil service commission were announced today by chairman Sam Hughes.

Main changes include the setting up of four new directorates within the government's central personnel agency for Canada's 140,000 civil servants under the commission's jurisdiction.

Top post in the shuffle goes to Clyde R. Patterson, 42, a native of Portage La Prairie, Man., and war-time army officer, named head of a new directorate of operations. He now is acting director of the personnel selection branch, to be merged with job classification into the new department.

HIRING SIMPLIFIED

His salary will range from $16,500 to $18,000 in the administrative post designed to simplify hiring, promoting and classifying civil servants.

Mr. Patterson, a graduate of the University of Alberta, was occupational counsellor with the department of veterans affairs before joining the civil service commission as district representative for Alberta in 1946. He came to Ottawa from

He said in an interview he thinks the case for the western route is clearer now than before.

Mr. Bonner said the route would "foster economic development both in northern Alberta and B.C. and give Alberta a direct connection to the Pacific seaboard through the Pacific Great Eastern Railway."

LONDON LETTER

Ten Favorite Books

LONDON—I was interested in seeing, necessarily a bit late, The Toronto Telegram readers' choice of Ten Favorite Books. It makes a good comparison with an announcement that has just been made of the three books which the British public have regarded as their favorites to buy in a quarter of a century of paperbackbacks.

Right now the 25th anniversary of the starting of these pocket-books is being celebrated here. Penguin got them going (the first ever—Andre Maurois' Life of Shelley) in 1935, and now 26 publishers in this country are churning out 60,000,000 each year.

The Americans, incidentally, copied the English just before the war and now far out-sell them. Last year in the U.S. 300,000,000 paperbackbacks were sold.

Three biggest British publishers in this field are Penguin, Pan and Corgi and here are their all-time best-sellers.

Penguin—Homer's Odyssey.
Pan—The Dam Busters, by Paul Brickhill.
Corgi—The Scourge of the Swastika, by Lord Russell.

A classic in the strictest sense, a true war adventure story, and the story of Nazi atrocities by one of the men who investigated the concentration camps. Not only is this a strangely mixed bag but it is odd that only one of them, The Odyssey, crops up on the Ten Favorite Books list.

In 25 years the paperback people here have published all on The Telegram's readers' list, plus every other classic you can think of, but not even books like David Copperfield and Treasure Island have been able to build up sales over the years matching the dam busters and the Nazi ghoulies.

The explanation probably is that paperback sales are a misleading guide to general taste. As one British publisher commented: "There is a gap between being able to read and being able to read books. And there is another gap between being able to read books and being able to read good books."

will be a little cooler today as the result of a week surge of Pacific air which has now covered most of the province. Warming will be quick in the wake of this disturbance in southern parts but slower in the north. Rain is expected to be confined to the north coast where the effect of a storm off shore will be felt Friday. However, a few scattered showers or thunderstorms may form in the southern interior later today.

Severe Losses Of Quebec Gas Sicken Investors

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

A highly-regarded, solidly-endorsed preferred share offering which has gone temporarily sour, is giving some local brokers and shareholders considerable concern.

Their sick feeling came this week in a letter from the Quebec Natural Gas Corporation, the east-Canadian link in the giant Trans-Canada pipeline system.

Both shareholders and brokers knew Quebec Natural Gas had operated at severe loss in the six months ending last December 31. They also knew the company was politically entangled, a condition which newly-elected Premier Lesage has promised to look into. But they hardly expected to read this opening sentence in the company's recent letter.

"The annual report with audited financial statements for the fiscal year ended June 30 . . . will show very disappointing results from the year's operations."

"Devastating" might be more appropriate than "disappointing" in talking about the corporation's operations.

'Adverse Factors'

In the first half of the fiscal year the company lost $2,347,109. No figures are in for the second half. But Quebec Natural Gas now says "adverse factors" resulted in a greater loss.

One broker, fairly familiar with the operation, estimated the entire year's loss at $5,000,000.

"It might even be as high as $6,000,000," he said.

The sad part of the story for Victoria shareholders and the dealers who sold the stock is not that Quebec Natural Gas, or for that matter any individual stock, had a noticeably sick financial year.

The gloom comes from this point:

Last September ostensibly desirous Quebec Natural Gas 6 per cent cumulative redeemable preferred shares were offered at $101 for one preferred share and one common share accompanied by a purchase warrant. The warrant entitled the buyer to purchase two common shares for $18 each and was a sort of bonus in that shareholders would forego dividends until September 1, 1962.

The offer was underwritten by two giant Canadian financial houses, Nesbitt, Thomson; and, Wood, Gundy and by the smaller but substantial firm of Osler, Hammond & Nanton.

Hardly Miss

In the financial field as in other fields infallibility is rare. But the mere fact that the above trio underwrote the issue carried a connotation that Quebec Natural Gas was something which could hardly miss.

Why has it missed so far?

Says Quebec Natural Gas: Montreal, the mainstay of its gas load, enjoyed a milder than usual winter resulting in reduced consumption. Tremendously stiff competition from oil and coal companies, able to cut prices because of oversupply and not regulated by any government agency worked to keep gas requirements down.

A tremendous blow to Quebec Natural Gas was the "teething troubles" of a mammoth cement plant. Hindered by pesky problems which continually set back the start of operation, the plant had no occasion to call for the 9,000,000 cubic feet of gas it expected to use daily.

All these factors played a large role in the company's loss picture. Equally have they affected the status of its preferred shares and common stocks.

Shares Plummet

The preferred shares which sold last September for $101 traded Tuesday at $55. The common stock has plummeted from $16 to $7.

All of which leads to an appreciation of the comments of two local brokers. Said one who had sold the preferred shares: "The situation makes me sick."

Said the other broker who turned down an allotment to sell: "I'm glad I didn't take any."

A portent of good news for shareholders: The company has replaced its management consultants with Duff & Phelps and has given them wide powers. Leonard Milano, Quebec Natural Gas president, has resigned and is no longer even a director.

The company plans an aggressive sales program, has increased its industrial sales force. It has arranged "banking accommodation."

Quebec Natural Gas is still optimistic but with restraint. A good deal of the latter can often avoid embarrassment—especially when dealing with income projection figures.

REALIGNMENT of executive duties announced by Canadian National Railways president Donald Gordon has marketing and transportation services brought under executive vice-president Norman J. MacMillan, QC, left. New system vice-president, Stanley F. Dingle, right, former operation vice-president, still undertake liaison work and special assignments on behalf of Mr. Gordon. In other changes, Alex H. Hart, former vice-president of traffic, is now vice-president of sales. Howard C. Grayston, former assistant vice-president of operation, will become vice-president of transportation and maintenance.

'Let Needy Have Cars So They Can Find Jobs'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Local 452, today protested to Welfare Minister Black the practice of keeping the automobile licence plates of persons applying for social assistance.

In a letter to the minister, the union said that "with well over a thousand of our members unemployed, we would like to strongly object to this practice as it makes it even more difficult to look for jobs without a car."

The letter stated that construction jobs are scattered all over the lower mainland, and that to cover these by public transportation is impossible. The carpenters sent letters to the B.C. Federation of Labor (CLC), the Vancouver and District Labor Council and other unions asking their support.

Credit Cost Probe Gets Women's Cheer

OTTAWA (CP) — The ladies — consumers — and welfare workers — are rallying behind Senator David Croll and his bill to have the cost of credit buying clearly disclosed.

Women from the Canadian Welfare Council and the Canadian Association of Consumers swept into the Senate banking committee Wednesday to tell the senators how much they liked Senator Croll's bill.

The Ontario Liberal senator has proposed legislation which would force finance companies, retail stores, dealers and others to disclose in writing the total dollar cost of all finance charges on installment buying as well as the simple annual interest rate — or face criminal charges.

Mrs. D. L. Ross of Montreal, chairman of the family and child welfare division of the Canadian Welfare Council, told the senators of families up to their necks in debt.

More GIs In Korea

SEOUL (AP) — United States army strength in Korea has been increased by 3,000 men effective July 1 to help reduce the number of South Korean soldiers now assigned to two United States Army divisions.

The information office of the United States 8th Army denied the increase was connected with the April revolt in which popular demonstrations toppled the Syngman Rhee government.

'Stay Away' Prince George Pleads

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. — While most British Columbia cities are welcoming summer tourists with open arms, Prince George is pleading with people to stay away. The city's plea isn't directed at tourists, however, but at transient laborers unaware that the unemployment situation in Prince George is one of the worst in its history.

"Don't come to Prince George," Mayor Garvin Dezell warned them Wednesday. About 1,200 men are reported to be lining up daily at the Unemployment Insurance Commission and social welfare administrator Verne Dalarmont says the situation is the worst it has ever been.

He says the main reasons are a slump in the lumber industry and a "fantastic misconception" over the Pacific Northern Railway.

POLITICAL FOOTBALL The PNR, a proposed link between nearby Summit Lake and the Yukon border, 700 miles away, has become British Columbia's "biggest political football in recent weeks."

The railway has begun work on marshalling yards near Summit Lake against the protests of opposition parties who say the PNR should have a

A side issue is a court action by the northern coastal city of Prince Rupert to halt work on the railway because its proposed route by-passes Prince Rupert and other northern centres.

The net result in this city of 13,000 some 350 miles north of Vancouver has been a tremendous influx of employment seekers, a rising crime rate and the city's biggest headache in years.

Crofton Just Possibility As Site for New Sawmill

Crofton is a possibility "and nothing more" as a site for a new B.C. Forest Products sawmill, company vice-president Alex Rankin said today.

Mr. Rankin was commenting on reports that Crofton is being considered as a site for a mill designed to replace the mill lost by fire on Vancouver's False Creek.

Unlicensed Cattle Sale Brings Fine

DUNCAN — Henry Yow Chung, Victoria, Wednesday was fined $25 or 15 days and paid $5.50 court costs after being convicted before Magistrate A. C. Sutton on a charge of selling cattle without a stock dealer's licence.

Lynden Kirby, Nanaimo, a brand inspector with the B.C. department of agriculture, said Chung sold two bulls, one cow and a heifer to a Vancouver meat packing plant in May.

Chung told the court he has 72 acres of land at 4020 Prospect Lake Road, and he believed he was a bona fide farmer under section two of the Stock Brand Act.

Under cross-examination by the RCMP constable acting for the crown, Chung admitted he bought cattle and fattened them on his farm.

Magistrate Sutton said that a bona fide farmer is one who sells stock arising solely from the occupation as a farmer.

"You buy them," he stated.

QUALICUM BEACH — A 1,000-pound sea lion has been shot here after it climbed aboard a 16-foot power boat and caused some damage.

"It seemed like murder. I didn't like to do it," said fishing guide Mike Gorick after he shot the big sea lion as it lay sunning itself on the boat of John Lecky.

The sea lion had broken the windshield, and it was feared it might damage other boats and prey on fish in the area.

Scouts of Brentwood troop and committee members will repair the old Brentwood School as a meeting hall under a recently granted 15-year lease by Central Saanich Municipality.

The old school was turned back to the municipality by the school board as the site was considered too small for a modern school and too close to the new Brentwood school.

Scouts will re-roof the structure, apply stucco and install a heating system.

GANGES — Twelve members of the Salt Spring Island Sea Scouts have qualified for artificial respiration certificates after being examined by Miss M. D. Anderson following St. John Ambulance course under the instruction of Mrs. V. J. Harroway.

DUNCAN — There is an enrollment of 133 pupils at the summer school here which started this week.

Seven of the pupils are from the Gulf Islands.

Fees of instructors are covered by charges to students

SALE of Elk Lake-Patricia Bay pipeline, owned by the federal government, to the municipality of Central Saanich has been approved by the Treasury Board according to word received by Reeve H. Rupert Brown. Ratepayers last December approved a $83,000 by-law which included purchase of the pipeline for $1 and construction of a 500,000-gallon reservoir.

Whole New Deal If Ferry Moved

DUNCAN — The provincial government will have to build new docks, new ferries and operate the service itself if terminals of the Mill-Bay-Brentwood ferry are moved further north, directors of Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce were told Wednesday.

O. H. New, Vancouver, president of Coast Ferries Ltd., which operates the present service, said he was opposed to more northerly terminals because they would increase the mileage, increase the cost and make the service less of a tourist attraction.

The present service, he said, provides a year-round alternate route to the Malahat drive and a perfect scenic route for tourists. Even with the suggested new terminals the quickest way to the mainland for Duncan and district residents would still be via Nanaimo.

"In the last analysis when the appeal of a new service wears off, the public will take the shortest, cheapest route."

He said his company was presently accepting a government subsidy of $2,500 a month "on a month-to-month basis" to operate the Mill Bay-Brentwood ferry.

The operation is a marginal one at best, and the government would most certainly "take over" if new terminals are approved.

"They have their own ferry department and they seem to be expanding all over the coast. They will have to put in their own docks and ferries and it will cost the people a lot of money," Mr. New said.

The chamber has been pressing for new ferry terminals, on the site of the old solarium and in the vicinity of Patricia Bay, to provide a shorter route to the airport and the new government ferry at Swartz Bay.

Oath Refused By Convicted Victoria Man

PORT ALBERNI — Preliminary hearing on a charge of breaking and entering against David Wong of Saanich was adjourned here Wednesday to July 20 when Gunnar Jacobson, Victoria, refused to be sworn in as a witness.

Jacobson had previously been sentenced to 27 months on the same charge.

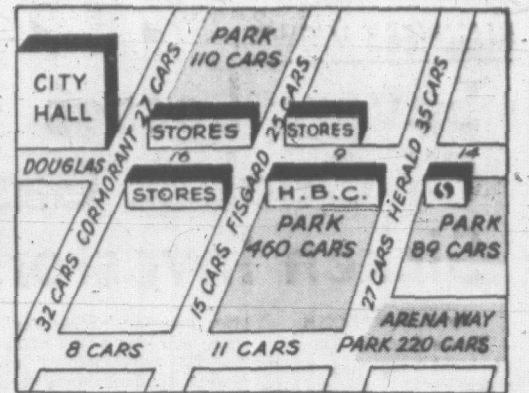

The charge against Wong is that of breaking and entering the Tin Yin Club here June 16. Jacobson was arrested as he left the premises where the caretaker, Lee Fung, had been bound, gagged and beaten.

Wong was later arrested in Saanich.

Burglars Smash Door With Bench For Theft of $15

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — Thieves took $15 worth of cigarettes and candy valued at about $2 Tuesday from the Cliffside store on the Old Victoria Road after using a bench on the porch of the store as a battering ram to force the door.

G. Fullmore, owner, discovered the break-in Wednesday.

Little Lawyer Has Habit Of Taking Big Ones Far

Life-Saving Putt Assists Plommer In Upset Victory

By ERNIE FEDORUK

Bob Plommer, a 38-year-old Vancouver lawyer, won the B.C. Closed golf championship back in 1946 and "the only other thing I ever did was to get into the semifinals of this one last year."

He sounded almost apologetic because he wasn't able to provide an armful of title-winning credentials.

Veterans like Uplands' Bob Morrison know Plommer best as "a scrappy little fighter."

And that's exactly the impression the slightly-built legal man left with the younger element Wednesday after he scored the first major upset in "this one"—the 57th annual British Columbia Amateur tournament.

35-Foot Lifesaver

Plommer dropped a sensational 35-foot putt off the fringe of the green to stay alive, dropping 35-footer from fringe of green. — (Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

'...JUST AN EASY PUTT'

Short putt on 22nd green by Vancouver's Bob Plommer helped him to upset victory over hockey star Andy Bathgate (right) Wednesday in 57th annual B.C. Amateur golf tournament. Not a long one, Plommer demonstrated, but he did come up with a sensational putt on 19th to stay alive, dropping 35-footer from fringe of green. — (Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

If First Call Comes Through, Bob's Not a Perfect Prophet

SIDELINE SLANTS

BY

Doug Peden

Andy Bathgate may have been stretching things a bit last winter when he said he might abandon his hockey career for a fling with the golfing professionals. But right now the guy who earns his winter cheques by blasting goals for New York Rangers is dead serious when he talks about an eventual career on the fairways.

A year ago, likeable Andy was just another good golfer. This summer, although he was bumped out of the B.C. Amateur tourney Wednesday at Uplands, he's been one of the best around these parts, winning the Vancouver City Amateur and the Ogopogo tourney at Kelowna and turning in a flock of sub-par cards.

And since he's been pitching and putting in a serious vein for only four summers, the 28-year-old athlete figures to keep on improving.

"This is the first year I've had my swing grooved," says Bathgate, who was hitting them half a mile off the tees but dropped a decision at the 22nd green Wednesday to Vancouver's Bob Plommer. "I tightened up my swing, keeping the right elbow in closer and taking a slower backswing. It's sure made a difference although I still have to watch that I don't slip back into that flat hockey swing."

Andy, who has tolled through five full National Hockey League campaigns with the Rangers since finishing a two-season stint with Vancouver Canucks, never knows just when his puck career will end.

Winner of the Hart Trophy as the NHL's most valuable player two seasons back, his scoring ability should keep him in the big time for a few more years. But Bathgate never knows when one or both of his battered and tender knees will give up the hockey ghost. Even on the golf course, Andy can't take chances. He has adjusted his stance so he won't throw his weight against a locked left knee.

Golf May Be Andy's Future Security

Two summers of running a motel up at Clinton, on the Prince George highway, kept Bathgate away from golf. He moved back to Vancouver four years ago and has been steadily chopping down his handicap, which is now rated at two.

In the Ogopogo last week, he racked up a five-under-par 67 on his way to the title and he has a pair of 66s to his credit, which is some shootin' in any circuit. At Uplands Tuesday, Andy got away to a shaky start and then chopped four strokes from par over the last 13 holes.

Most golfers are near their peak at 30, but there is no way of telling just how far Bathgate might go in the bunker business. He might never get much better, but the chances are that a guy who has done only about five months of serious swinging per year for four years hasn't come close to his full potential. Andy will never be satisfied until he gives it a shot on a full-time basis.

Although another year could make quite a difference, Bathgate knows he has a long way to go to be ready to step in with the touring pros. But he's hoping he will eventually be able to make a living out of golf, perhaps as a club pro.

"I don't know how much longer I can last in hockey," says Andy, "and I want some security for the future. Golf looks like a good thing."

"And," he added, "if they know I have a chance to make a good living out of golf, it puts me in a better bargaining position when it comes time to talk about hockey contracts."

Looking like one of the happiest men in town yesterday was big Steve Dunc, who used to slug the ball a fair country mile in Victoria's Senior Amateur Baseball League.

Doing well in his veterinary business in Eugene, Ore., Steve is pleased to be back among old friends in Victoria on a two-week vacation. But causing the biggest part of the big smile was the fact that his son, Steve, Jr., 18, recently signed a bonus contract with the Cleveland Indians.

Born in Victoria, Steve, Jr., is even bigger than his dad, packing a well-proportioned 220-pounds on a six-three frame. A fast-balling righthanded pitcher, he was an all-star in his high school district and has been assigned to Selma, Ala., in the Florida-Alabama League since being signed by scout Carl Mays, the old Yankee pitcher.

Steve, Sr., still looking like he could go nine innings in his old right field spot, keeps busy, and slim, with a boys' baseball program in Eugene. He says the Eugene club in the class "B" Northwest League is drawing an average of about 1,000 fans per game and the Tri-Cities entry of Richland, Kennewick and Pasco is averaging close to 2,500.

Victoria sprinter Lynn Eves, rated among the world's fastest 19-year-olds, should be flashing on television screens during Saturday's Canadian track and field championships at Saskatoon. Part of the program will be televised over Channels 2 and 6, starting at 2 p.m.

WINNIPEG — Victoria swimmers Bob Wheaton and Stan Cameron were unplaced in two open events at the Canadian swimming championships and Olympic team trials Wednesday night — but they splashed around with record-breaking company.

Wheaton placed third in the 100-metre butterfly heat won by Cameron Groat of Montreal who set a Canadian record of 1:01.5, 4.9 seconds off the old mark. World record is 1:00.1, set by Japan's Takashi Ishimoto.

Wheaton's time, unannounced, was good enough to put him in the final of that event but he was unplaced as Groat scooped home in 1:02.5.

CANADIAN RECORD

Cameron placed third in a 200-metre breaststroke heat and his time was good enough to make the final, won by Steve Robanovich, Montreal, in Canadian record time of 2:44.0, which bettered the previous time of 2:46.6.

Sara Barber, Bradford, Ont., clipped two-tenths of a second off the world record of 1:14 for the women's 100-metre backstroke as she easily won the second heat of that event. The time will be recognized as a Canadian record only, however, as world records must be set in pools 50 metres or longer. The Winnipeg pool measures only 25 metres long.

Toronto's Tom Verth was the other record setter. He covered the men's 400-metre freestyle in 4:34.2 in a heat to easily surpass Bill Slater's 4:40.4 set in the 1956 Olympic Games in Australia.

400-metre freestyle final—1. Tom Verth, Toronto; 2. Bill Slater, Vancouver; 3. Ed Coxall, Vancouver. Time, 4:31.3 (record).
200-metre breaststroke final—1. Steve Robanovich, Montreal; 2. Jack Kelon, Ocean Falls, B.C.; 3. Brian Griffiths, Ocean Falls, B.C. Time, 2:42.8 (record).
100-metre butterfly final—1. Cameron Groat, Montreal; 2. Richard Pound, Montreal; 3. John Jacobs, Montreal. Time, 1:02.5.
400-metre medley relay final—1. Quebec section; 2. Toronto; 3. Vancouver. Time, 4:13.6.
Boys—13 and 14—100-metre freestyle final—1. Sarah Barber, Ocean Falls; 2. Roger Rushfield, Ocean Falls; 3. Bill Sanders, Vancouver. Time, 1:17.4.
Boys—11 and 12—400-metre freestyle final—1. Michael Lacombe, Toronto; 2. Bob Pratt, Winnipeg; 3. Ralph Butten, Ocean Falls. Time, 1:06.4.
Boys, 10 and under, 50-metre breaststroke final—1. Bill Mahoney, Vancouver; 2. Paul Walker, London; 3. George Smith, Edmonton. Time, 45.8 (record).

WOMEN
100-metre butterfly final—1. Marg Fraser, Vancouver; 2. Judy McFalls, Vancouver; 3. Mary Stewart, Vancouver. Time, 1:13.0.
400-metre free style final—1. Katy Campbell, Vancouver; 2. Mary Twa-saki, Vancouver; 3. Patty Thompson, Hamilton. Time, 5:12.5 (record).
400-metre medley relay final—1. Vancouver Dolphins; 2. Toronto; 3. Quebec. Time, 4:13.6.
100-metre backstroke final—1. Sara Barber, Bradford, Ont.; 2. Lynn Scott, Toronto; 3. Mary Stewart, Vancouver. Time, 1:12.3.
Girls 13 and 14, 100-metre freestyle final—1. Patty Thompson, Hamilton; 2. Ann Harvey, Vancouver; 3. Carol Ann Morrow, Vancouver. Time, 1:11.0.
Girls 11 and 12, 100-metre freestyle final—1. Lynne Pomeroy, Vancouver; 2. Erika Middleton, London; 3. Colleen Walsh, Saskatoon. Time, 1:14.8 (record).

Deal Backfires On Lowly Vets

Keith Todd wanted to do something to end his Naval Veterans' winless streak in the Senior Amateur Baseball League, so one of his moves was to deal Robin Barnes to Olson Motors.

Barnes had only appeared in three games this season, and had not particularly distinguished himself on behalf of the Vets.

Wednesday the two clubs met at Royal Athletic Park and—you guessed it—there was Barnes! He pitched two-hit ball in relief to help his new teammates to a 6-2 win over the beleaguered Vets.

The loss increased Vets' winless streak to nine games. Included in the total is one tie.

The victory moved Olsons into a second-place tie with Wakeman Trimble and to within two games of first-place Eagles.

Judy Cornwall Upsets Fourth-Seeded Player

Joy Wassen was fourth-seeded in the city hard courts tennis championships but she ran into more than she could handle in unseeded Judy Cornwall.

Miss Cornwall claimed an 11-9, 6-3 victory over the fourth-seeded player to highlight Wednesday's games at the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club.

Play continues tonight at both Vic Lawn and Naden courts with doubles dominating action. Of the 14 games scheduled, only two singles matches will be played.

5:30—Gardner and Browne-Cave vs. Hibberston and Parker; Emsler and McKennie vs. Cooley and Cameron; Lawrence vs. Leves.
6:30 — Mitchell and Aldegar vs. Bishop and Neal; Browne-Cave and McCormick vs. Hartley and Hedley; Wilson and Trumble vs. McKennie and Cooley; Cameron vs. Cox and Hedley.
7:30—Fairburn and Parrish vs. Hibberston and Houston; Harrison and Gowan vs. Jones and Aldegar.

City Bowlers Set Eyes On Provincial Titles

Seven Victoria men will represent Vancouver Island at the provincial lawn bowling championships in Vancouver, Friday and Saturday.

The Vancouver Island reps, determined by a round-robin elimination tournament earlier this month, will compete against players from five other sections of B.C.

Charles Hodgson of Canadian Pacific will compete in the singles division, while Andy Dickie and Alex Donald of Burnside will go after the doubles championship.

Colin Wood's Oak Bay rink will play in the rinks division. Other members of his foursome are Ed Bowkett, Ed Barnes and D. Scott.

Winners of the tournament will compete in the Canadian championships at Edmonton Aug. 22-24.

While Hodgson will be the singles representative, another Canadian Pacific member recently won the Peace Cup, emblematic of the Island singles championship.

Sam Barr of CP defeated steadily chopping down his handicap, which is now rated at two.

In the Opopogo last week, he racked up a five-under-par 67 on his way to the title and he has a pair of 66s to his credit, which is some shootin' in any circuit. At Upland Tuesday, Andy got away to a shaky start and then chopped four strokes from par over the last 13 holes.

CLASSY SHORTSTOP . . .
Offered $50,000 by Indians

Aberdeen Loaded With Talent

If it's class that Victoria baseball fans are looking for, they don't need to go any further than Royal Athletic Park on Saturday.

Victoria Pages will play their regular doubleheader against Aberdeen, as classy a team as can be found in the Northwest International League.

Aberdeen calls itself a semi-pro team, but it includes: A shortstop who has reportedly been offered a $30,000 bonus by the Cleveland Indians.

A pitcher who was picked as an All-American at the Hearst high-school tournament at Yankee Stadium last year.

And four players who last season performed for University of Southern California, runner-up in the U.S. national collegiate tournament.

This collection of talent took on Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast League Wednesday night. The Beavers came away shaking their heads. Portland had won, 7-2—but it's not the sort of score that they would like repeated around the PCL, since the difference between triple-A and semi-pro baseball is usually considered to be somewhat more than five runs.

On Saturday, at 2:30 and 7:30, the Aberdeen club will make its only appearance of the season at Royal Athletic Park. Since they play in the southern section, they make only one swing through the northern division.

Fans will be watching Gary Wyschi, who patrols shortstop like a blanket for Washington State University in the spring-time but who has not yet made up his mind about turning pro with the Indians.

Mike Carlson, the all-American and last year's player of the year in Washington high school circles, is expected to pitch one of the games for Aberdeen.

'YES'—TRUMAN

For Job?

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Except in Harry Truman's view, Senator John Kennedy's age was no great handicap to his winning the Democratic party's nomination for president.

Kennedy is 43. Truman, 60 when he succeeded to the presidency on Franklin Delano Roosevelt's death in 1945, says 43 is too young.

The youngest president elected in the United States was Theodore Roosevelt, a relative of F.D.R., 42 when he succeeded William McKinley in 1901.

Records of unsuccessful candidates for president are sketchy but certainly one of the youngest to try for office was William Jennings Bryan, only 36 when he entered the first of three campaigns for the Democrats in 1896.

Other presidential nominees under 50 years of age and how they fared:

SUCCESSFUL
Ulysses Grant, Rep., 1868, 46; Grover Cleveland, Dem., 1892, 47; Franklin Pierce, Dem., 1852, 48; James Garfield, Rep., 1880, 49; James Polk, Dem., 1844, 49.

UNSUCCESSFUL
George McClellan, Dem., 1864, 38; Arthur Landon, rep., 1932, 39; Thomas Dewey, rep., 1944, 42; Stephen Douglas, Dem., 1860, 47; Wendell Willkie, Rep., 1940, 48.

By WILLIAM THEIS
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sen. John F. Kennedy didn't capture the Democratic presidential nomination with just mirrors and money.

He did it with daring, personality, a lot of money—and the most effective political organization since the heyday of James A. Farley.

That added up to a powerhouse effort. And if there is anything that commands political respect—however reluctant it's power.

The Massachusetts senator had some rough party terrain to cross on the long road to Los Angeles. But, like the army engineers, he had a "Bailey bridge" to carry him into the camps of the political pros.

His "bridge" from the Senate and Cape Cod to the operating levels of the Democratic "pros" was bald-pated, cigar-smoking John B. Bailey, Democratic state chairman of Connecticut. Bailey not only knew the party professionals and where to find them—he's one himself.

Kennedy's man in the ranks of Democratic governors was Abraham A. Ribicoff, the suave governor from Connecticut.

GRASS ROOTS

Together and apart, they worked the grass roots and the state capitals, the regional and national political sessions.

Kennedy's brothers, Robert and Ted, startled the old pros with the drive they displayed in the long series of presidential primaries won by the senator.

Another impressive thing was Kennedy's use of a new political "mix." He used the lick-em-in-the-open primary approach, the public image television pitch—and the smoke-filled room.

EFFICIENCY

The thoroughness and efficiency of his overall operation in the tight battle for delegate votes impressed state leaders. Some were grimly irritated at "Kennedy pressure." But they recognized there is no political prize for betting on a loser.

The mistake of the Johnson, Symington and Stevenson supporters appears to have been in not recognizing the punch in the Kennedy effort sooner. The warning signs have been flying since 1956. They've been flapping in the opponents' faces since Kennedy won his first primary in March.

The basic decision which made Kennedy the Democratic presidential nominee was the

HERE'S HOW VOTE WENT

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Here is how the voting stood at the Democratic national convention at the end of the first ballot Wednesday night before Missouri switched and the convention nominated Kennedy by acclamation:

Kennedy	806
Johnson	409
Symington	86
Stevenson	79½
Meyner	43
Humphrey	41½
Smathers	30
Barnett	34
Loveless	1½
Brown	½
Faubus	½
Rosellini	½

The Missouri switch subtracted 39 from Symington and added 39 to Kennedy. Then came the acclamation.

right and essential decision to enter the presidential primaries.

Kennedy swept those he entered and he missed few.

Harry Truman sneered that such primaries were eyewash. He probably thinks differently today.

Truman and the old pros were licked on their own chosen battleground, a national political convention.

TRAFFIC FINES

In Colwood RCMP court Wednesday:

Roland Norman, 2817 Inlet, $15 and $3 costs for operating a trailer without licence plate.

Brian Mann, 808 Tolmie, $15 and $3 costs for failing to stop at a stop sign.

WOMAN KILLED

PRINCE RUPERT — Mrs. Vera Herman, 23, of Prince Rupert was killed Wednesday when her car went into a ditch and struck a rock on the Northern Trans-Provincial Highway 20 miles east of here. A male companion, not identified by police, was not injured.

'RIGGING' EXPLAINED

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jim Farley, campaign manager for the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, has an explanation of rigging: "In my day they called it manipulating. Those who have control have control. If you can't get control then you accuse the other fellow of rigging."

Europe Regrets Stevenson Defeat

LONDON (AP) — Newspapers of Britain and western Europe gave the nomination of John Kennedy top headline treatment today. Most made a point of the Massachusetts senator's youth, but there seemed little inclination to disapprove of him on that account. There was an occasional sign of regret that Adlai E. Stevenson, widely regarded in Europe as the most international-minded of Kennedy's rivals for the Democratic nomination had failed to win a third try at the presidency.

Adlai Mistook Sentiment For Support of Party

By HAROLD MORRISON

LOS ANGELES (CP)—Adlai Stevenson may have hurt his political fortunes badly in his futile effort to regain the Democratic leadership.

Torn by indecision, the master of rhetoric was decisively trounced Wednesday night in his oblique fight against John Kennedy for the party's presidential nomination.

He had been nominated twice before and twice before he had tasted defeat in general elections.

Some of those close to the 60-year-old lawyer, who's gained world-wide prestige with his words and intellect, suggested he didn't have a chance against Kennedy; that a bad showing in the fight might humiliate him. It might reflect on his prestige and power if appointed to a position of high federal authority.

Yet there were others who urged him on. Split between the two views, Stevenson fought a shadowy fight and lost. He did not want to withdraw completely and he did not want to appear as a full candidate. He settled for a role of half-candidate who awaited a party draft that never came.

When finally he allowed his name to go before the convention as a full candidate, the delegates gave him only token recognition.

Kennedy had hinted more than once that if ever he became president, he would consider Stevenson for the high position of secretary of state, his chief foreign adviser.

While he may still consider Stevenson for the role if the Democrats triumph next November, Kennedy's respect for Stevenson may have cooled by what has transpired.

Kennedy, it is known, wanted

Stevenson to nominate him for the leadership at the convention. Stevenson hemmed and hawed. To nominate Kennedy would mean his own withdrawal.

Stevenson apparently was not prepared to do that and he wasn't prepared to make any prompt decision on Kennedy's request. So he kept Kennedy waiting and waiting and finally Kennedy turned to Minnesota Governor Orville Freeman.

What had stirred Stevenson was an uproarious welcome when he made an unscheduled appearance at the convention, obviously to test the political wind.

He apparently had mistaken sentiment for votes; acclaim for political commitments. And so it now may take a major struggle on the part of Stevenson to get back in Kennedy's good graces.

Victoria Daily Times 13
THURS., JULY 14, 1960

IMPENDING MOTHERHOOD
kept Jacqueline Kennedy, 29-year-old wife of Sen. John Kennedy, from sharing in her husband's triumph in winning the Democratic presidential nomination at Los Angeles Wednesday night. Mrs. Kennedy is expecting a second child before the November elections.

Family Worked For Nomination

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Kennedy clan—three generations of it—went to bat with money, sweat and stamina to get Senator John F. Kennedy the Democratic presidential nomination.

Their team spirit got its start on the playing fields of Harvard. They found it could score for them in politics, too.

BOUND CLOCK

Youthful Kennedy brothers worked round the clock in primaries from New Hampshire to West Virginia.

His wife, mother and sisters presided at political teas and receptions, shook thousands of hands.

Seventy-one-year-old Joe Kennedy, whose major ambition is to see his son president, kept out of the front line and made no public speeches.

STILL TAGGED

Joe Kennedy served as U.S. ambassador to Britain in the days of Munich and Hitler, and is still tagged with an isolationist label from those early war days when he tried to keep the U.S. out of the war "unless we are attacked."

He was called an appeaser, a charge he said was "false and malicious."

DRIVING AMBITION

The driving ambition of presidential candidate Kennedy doubtless comes from his Irish-Catholic father. Brought up in a moderately well-to-do Boston family, Joe Kennedy set out to be a millionaire by the time he was 35—and succeeded far ahead of schedule.

Today, Joe Kennedy's wealth, derived from banking, liquor, the motion picture industry, shipping and Wall Street interests has been estimated in the tens of millions.

3 AMERICAN NEWSMEN KICKED OUT BY CUBA

HAVANA (AP) — Cuban authorities ordered three American newspapermen expelled Wednesday after releasing them from jail.

They had been picked up for investigation Tuesday but no charges were filed.

They are John Hlavack, a part-time correspondent for the National Broadcasting Company and Time magazine; Judson Gooding, Life magazine reporter from Stamford, Conn., and William G. Moeser, outdoor editor of the Miami, Fla., News. They left Cuba later by air.

Parents Warned On Life Jackets

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian parents were warned Wednesday against buying improper life jackets for the small fry.

The transport department said in a statement it still is trying to improve life jackets but "considerable difficulty has been experienced in arriving at a thoroughly efficient life jacket design for infant children."

There now is a wide selection on the market but many are too bulky for the small child, the department said. It had become important for parents to "shop around" for life jackets which, to be effective, must fit the body snugly.

Two other points of caution:

1. Parents should spend a good deal of time in the water with the youngster until he becomes fully confident of the life jacket's capacity to support him, unassisted by an adult.
2. "Most important of all, a life jacket can never be a proper substitute for the mere presence of a small child's parents."

'Ease Liquor Laws'

WELLINGTON (Reuters) — A parliamentary committee Wednesday recommended New Zealand's liquor laws be eased to permit the sale of wine and beer with restaurant meals.

FAST RELIEF FOR ACHING MUSCLES

Russian Fishermen 'Better Off'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Secretary Homer Stevens of the left-wing United Fishermen and Allied Workers Union (Ind.) said Wednesday Russia is making better use of sea products than Canada and plans to increase its fish production by 75 per cent in the next six years.

Mr. Stevens, who returned this week with five other members of the union from a 15 day visit to Russia, said almost all the Russian fish will be for home consumption. The average Russian eats 30 pounds of fish a year while the Canadian average is only 13 pounds a year, he said.

now you know how far SIMCA goes on a gallon of gas

Here's the fact-backed report!

Much of the current mileage talk can be misleading to the average driver. Because most people do as much city and suburban driving as turnpike and highway. To get the facts and to give you realistic figures, Simca was tested under actual driving conditions.

THE SIMCA MILEAGE MARATHON

With USAC supervision, ten separate mileage runs were recently completed including a healthy portion of city driving at the start and end of each of the different runs. Results are tabulated below.

WHAT DO THE FIGURES PROVE?

Certainly they prove the Simca Marathon the biggest, most meaningful mileage test ever run on an imported car in North America. And they support the basic point that mileage varies with actual driving conditions. They also prove that, other factors being equal, Simca gets a good deal more out of a gallon of gas than most other automobiles. It's no accident, of course, Simca is designed for this kind of performance.

WHAT PRICE MILEAGE?

True, a few economy imports deliver equal or better mileage but at a tremendous sacrifice in room, comfort and handling. Simca is a 4-door, 5-passenger sedan. It has a 50-horsepower engine. It's heavier, huskier, and has more pep than most of its competitors. People tell us it rides better, too. Test drive Simca yourself and see!

SIMCA MILEAGE MARATHON

2,826.44 total miles. 45.7 average miles per Imperial gallon from point to point. (39.9 average miles per Imperial gallon in city travel.)

FREE pamphlet gives you all the details. Get your copy now from one of the Simca dealers listed below. Then prove for yourself the economy you can expect realistically from Simca!

PLEASURE AFLOAT

Alaska Race Tough Test

Hulls are being given microscopic examination, mystic rites are being performed to bring outboard engines to the peak of their power, and charts are being committed to memory in preparation for the second annual Alaska-Seattle outboard marathon Aug. 18-21.

The first race was held last year over the 737-mile route between Ketchikan and Shishou Bay in Seattle. It was raced in four days, with overnight stops at Prince Rupert, Nanaimo, and Nanaimo.

Exclusive Set

It is not a race for anyone. Entries to date all have twin motor installations of up to 80 horsepower each, and boats measure from 17 to 21 feet. Northwest Stock Outboard Marathon Association of Lynnwood, Wash., which sponsors the event, has set up 15 safety requirements which all boats must meet, and both boats and drivers will face tough screening tests.

Boats from the Pacific northwest must be available for inspection no later than Aug. 3 and must be ready for sailing aboard an Alaska Steamship Lines vessel Aug. 5. Those from elsewhere will be inspected by Aug. 10, and shipped out Aug. 12.

Extra Equipment

Winners last year were Norm Boddy and Al Martin of Seattle, who finished the course with an elapsed running time of 28 hours, 39 minutes and 40 seconds. In second place in over-all running, and first in the division for lighter powered craft, were J. Aubrey Ash and Harold Ball of Duncan, whose boat was Vancouver-designed and Duncan-built.

Extra equipment required for the race this year will include an adjusted compass, navigation charts of the routes, navigation lights, self-inflating life raft, and a distress signal kit.

On the other side of the continent a Canadian team is getting ready to defend the Harmsworth trophy, emblematic of supremacy in international high-speed motorboat competition, to be raced for Aug. 19, 20 and 22.

It was won last year at Detroit by Bob Hayward, who drove Miss Supertest III to victory in two heats out of three over Maverick, owned by W. T. Waggoner of Texas and driven by Bill Stead of Reno, Nev.

Race In Canada

Supertest owner Jim Thompson of London, Ont., has his older Miss Supertest II racing in the United States, with Hayward, Ontario's fastest chicken rancher, at the wheel.

Viscount Dies

LONDON (AP) — Viscount Cleeve, former first lord of the Admiralty, died at his home Wednesday after a long illness. He was 56. Until his elevation to the peerage in 1955, as J. P. L. Thomas he was a Conservative member of Parliament for 20 years. A bachelor, he leaves no heir to the title.

and sturdy loyalty of the Democratic party.

There was something at once pathetic and noble in the constancy of the south to the lost cause of Senator Lyndon Johnson. Even more poignant was the sentimental affection for Mr. Adlai Stevenson.

Both these candidates commanded a personal dedication almost totally absent from Senator Kennedy's campaign.

Humiliating

Mr. Stevenson will need all his philosophy to overcome this humiliating rebuke. Former Senator Herbert Lehman spoke the truth when he said that Mr. Stevenson had more support in the country than at the convention.

It is a mockery of Mr. Stevenson's national stature to have him receiving only three and a half votes of New York's 114 votes and only two votes in his own state of Illinois.

Yet this penalty has been visited on him because he has failed to establish friendly relations with the men who control the state organizations.

In his brief remarks at the convention to acknowledge his unanimous nomination, Senator Kennedy made a mistake in failing to include Mr. Stevenson in his generous references to the defeated candidates.

He was irritated with Mr. Stevenson for failing to place his own name in nomination, for being an unavowed candidate until the last moment, and for running a campaign that depended upon emotional demonstrations by the public.

Not a Feud

Many commentators have interpreted Senator Kennedy's deliberate omission as the beginning of a feud with Mr. Stevenson. They are completely wrong.

In his acceptance speech on Friday night Senator Kennedy will honor Mr. Stevenson in the most generous tribute that a new leader could be expected to give to his predecessor. He wants Mr. Stevenson to have a prominent part in the campaign. If Senator Kennedy becomes president he will offer the position of secretary of state to Mr. Stevenson.

The cynicism of politics has another ugly illustration in the new position of Senator Stuart Symington.

In private conversation Senator Kennedy has often treated Senator Symington's ability as a subject for mocking jest. The capricious demands of a convention have made Senator Symington a serious contender for the vice-presidential nomination.

When he appeared before the convention Senator Kennedy had not yet decided who the vice-presidential candidate should be, but he was aware of the gathering support for the senator from Missouri. Hence his prudent tribute to Senator Symington.

South Bitter

His praise of Senator Johnson was still more calculated. The south is bitter over Senator Johnson's poor showing. He did little better than Senator Richard Russell of Georgia at the 1952 convention. Apparently the veto against a southern candidate still exerts all its merciless force at a national convention.

When Congress reconvenes in August it will consider many issues that will influence the voting in the presidential campaign. It is imperative for Senator Kennedy to have the full co-operation of Speaker Rayburn and Senator Johnson.

So he is paying homage to them even while the prize gleams in his own hand.

It is characteristic of Senator Kennedy to be thinking already of the tasks of the presidential campaign, and to put behind him the triumphs of the convention. He compelled the victory at Los Angeles. Will he deserve victory in the presidential campaign?

He himself is supremely confident but many delegates have left the convention troubled and uncertain.

MANILA (AP) — Two airliners carrying a total of 88 persons crashed almost simultaneously in Philippine waters at opposite ends of the island chain before dawn today. An Ohio woman was killed. All the others survived.

First, a Philippine airlines DC-3 ditched in shallows near Dumagueta, off Negros Island in the south. Bad weather had prevented its scheduled landing at Zamboanga City on a flight from Manila and the pilot ran out of gas. The 27 passengers and three crew members all reached shore safely.

Eight minutes later a crippled Northwest Orient Airlines DC-7C, its left wing afire, plunged to the sea off the Polillo Islands 85 miles north-

Runaway Propeller Responsible

About an hour before the Northwest airliner crash, the pilot reported his No. 2 propeller had "run away" and he was unable to feather it. Then the engine caught fire, the flames spread to the wing and the four-engine DC-7C hit the water at 4:20 a.m.

Rescue planes sighted signal flares on the water near the crash scene, put down and taxied up to the survivors huddled on four rafts.

A rescue pilot said the water was so rough that the rafts had to be towed to a cove so the survivors could be loaded on the five planes.

Airline officials withheld the names of the dead woman and the severely injured survivor.

The passengers were shoeless and in wet clothes; some were still clinging to lifebelts. But most were in good spirits and full of praise for pilot David Rall of Seattle, Wash., west of Manila with 38 persons. Mrs. Clyde Kelley, 52, of Springfield, Ohio, died in the crash. Her body was found floating in the rough, inky waters. The others filed into rafts.

U.S. military amphibious planes picked up the 57 survivors and Mrs. Kelley's body and brought them to Manila.

The American airliner had been approaching Manila as its final stop on a flight from New York via Seattle, Anchorage, Tokyo and Okinawa.

B.C. Seeking Game Wardens, Bids Invited

New game wardens are to be appointed soon by the fish and game branch of the British Columbia department of recreation and conservation, the department announced today.

Applicants are asked to write for information forms to the Director, Fish and Game Branch, 567 Burrard Street, Vancouver.

If the examination board, after studying an application, decides the applicant is suitable, he will be asked to appear for an interview.

Deadline for applications is July 30.

An examination board comprising the departmental personnel officer, the regional biologist and the regional inspector will interview candidates on these dates:

Nanaimo, August 15; Nelson, August 17; Kelowna, August 19; Williams Lake, August 22; Vancouver, August 15; Kamloops, August 20, and Prince George, August 24.

Primary qualifications are Grade XII certificate, or its equal. Applicants must have a varied knowledge and experience with wild life and some knowledge of the duties of a game warden.

They must be at least 21, with one year's residence in British Columbia.

Tahiti in the South Pacific was discovered in 1767 by Captain Samuel Wallis, commander of the British frigate Dolphin.

SAXON BROOCH

LONDON (CP) — A silver brooch, one of the most important among Anglo-Saxon discoveries, now is on show in the British Museum. Experts say it is one of the few known pieces of English ornamental metalwork of the 10th century.

WEDDING DATE CHANGES DOG'S DAY IN COURT

Miss Carol Grund's dog will have its day, but not next Monday.

Miss Grund was charged in city police court with having a biting dog, and prosecutor T. P. O'Grady suggested a remand to Monday, when his witnesses would be available.

Said Miss Grund, demurely, "but I'm getting married Monday."

Said Magistrate William Ostler: "That would be an unsuitable day."

So Miss Grund's dog's day in court will be July 28.

... HERE AND THERE ... With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Premier Bennett says he wishes election speculators would let him know when they've made up their minds on a date.

Well—a city taxi driver tells me he has decided on Sept. 6. Why? Because the premier will be 60 on that day and he likes anniversaries and round figures.

So does Fred Popham, the taxi driver. He will be 60 on Sept. 6, too.

Just back from a visit to Blighty, John L. Hughes recalls a London sightseeing tour in which the guide said: "We are now passing the oldest tavern in London."

"Why?" asked a voice from the back of the coach.

"Why are there only two women in the B.C. Legislature?" asks Mrs. E. H. Parker visiting here from her home in Olympic, Washington.

Mrs. Parker maintains at least one quarter of any parliament should be composed of women.

"I have heard some of our male legislators arguing about housekeeping costs and proving how little they know about them."

Of course! They only provide the costs.

Evening Glory: A biblical "burning bush" in Beacon Hill Park. The effect is created by a red lamp shining up through a Japanese plum tree.

Austria offers a pleasant contrast to Italy, says George I. Warren in a letter from Innsbruck.

"The houses are all clean and newly painted, the people more courteous and English is much better understood."

Mr. and Mrs. Warren are continuing their European journey through Germany, Belgium and Holland en route to England and home to Victoria.

City Pair 'Adopt' Korea Girl

Mr. and Mrs. K. O. Henderson, 193 Werra Road, have "adopted" an eight-year-old Korean girl, Kim Ok Nyun, through the Foster Parents Plan Inc., Montreal.

They have pledged $15 monthly for the child, $8 of which goes in a cash grant and the remainder administered by the plan to purchase clothing and other necessities.

Ok Nyun, a clever, cute little girl whose ambition is to become a school teacher, was born during Korea's war years and is one of six, supported entirely by the widowed mother.

Several Victoria families have taken part in the adoption plan since it was first popularized here in the Times earlier this year.

611 Respond To Anti-Polio Shot Appeal

Some 611 persons turned out for Salk anti-polio inoculations Wednesday afternoon at the city health centre—10 times the normal number.

The rush followed publication in The Times a warning by medical spokesmen that polio could make a big comeback this year because it is at a peak in a recurring cycle.

More than 50 British Columbian have been hit by the disease so far this year, five of them in this area. There have been four deaths.

"Things certainly boomed here yesterday," said Victoria-Esquamalt medical health officer Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy. "We expect another big rush this afternoon when the regular inoculation clinic is held for pre-school children."

"I hope this turnout will continue until we have every one protected in Victoria. We are giving all the different inoculations at the free clinics but I would like to emphasize again that a person is not protected until the third inoculation and may still need a booster."

HE'S AMAZED NOTHING DONE ABOUT SMOKE PROBLEM

City 'Dirtier Than New York' Says Much-Travelled Diplomat

Downtown Victoria is dirtier than downtown New York and probably is the dirtiest city centre in the world, City Hall was told today by an internationally-eminent Canadian who has seen most of the globe.

The scathing attack on Victoria's smog problem was made by Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, chairman of B.C. Hydro, who said he could not understand why the city failed to do something about it.

He made the complaint, and tangled with the city's part-time smoke inspector, as a private citizen in a letter to public works chairman Ad. Geoffrey Edgelow which was revealed at a committee meeting.

The internationally-known Canadian diplomat, scientist and soldier who lived in New York the past nine years as director-general of the United Nations' technical assistance administration, wrote:

"Prior to coming to Victoria 10 months ago, I always thought that New York was the dirtiest city in which I had ever lived."

"On the basis of this 10 months' experience, I have had to change my mind: downtown Victoria is considerably dirtier than downtown New York."

Referring to newspaper reports, Dr. Keenleyside noted that the city's smoke abatement advisory committee was organized only last year after a public outcry although it was to have been set up eight years ago when the anti-smoke by-law was passed.

"I hope that it will not take another eight years to get the committee to do something about the problem," he said.

Dr. Keenleyside disagreed with smoke inspector Thomas Walker's opinion the current problem was only temporary.

"Again, reporting on the basis of my own experience, I think that Mr. Walker is mistaken."

"At any time during the last 10 months that I have left my car parked in downtown Victoria, it has become covered with a film of sticky dust within 15 minutes."

"It may be that the conditions in the past couple of weeks are worse than they were before, but the normal situation seems to me to be quite disgraceful for a city that is not heavily industrialized and that depends for its attraction to outsiders to such an extent on its quite phenomenal beauty."

Ald. Edgelow said a private citizen had approached him with an invention that he claimed would cut down output of smoke and cinders from industrial chimneys.

"I immediately referred him to one of the sawmill managers and the device will be studied by their engineers."

"If you park on the Gorge, your car can get dirty in a few minutes but I haven't noticed that it was that bad downtown."

(An irate Gorge Road area resident also made a complaint to the city today. His house was covered with soot while he was in the process of painting the exterior.)

"There is no question that the situation could be improved, however, and the committee is doing its best to see that it is," continued Ald. Edgelow.

"I'm sure that the people causing the problem will be only too delighted to obtain a device that will solve the situation provided it isn't too costly."

Mayor Percy Scurrell declined comment.

"I don't think this town is dirtier than New York," said Ald. Edgelow.

STRONGER THAN YOU BUY FROM LIQUOR STORE

Second Home-Brew Charge Laid Against Victoria Hotel Keeper

Victoria hotelkeeper Harold Stanley Holben, 1312 Government, was charged in city police court today for the second time in a month in connection with making homebrew beer for sale.

Fined $300 June 29 for keeping liquor for sale in violation of the B.C. Liquor Act, Holben pleaded guilty today to making beer without a valid permit, contrary to the Federal Excise Tax Act, and was fined $50 and $350 costs.

After a city policeman bought a dozen bottles of beer from Holben, city police and the RCMP raided his hotel premises June 26, turning up the following:

Fifty-two gallons of beer, two 18-gallon pots, one containing a beer mash; heating apparatus for fermentation, plastic hose, five pounds of sugar, a bottle capper and caps, 500 empty pint bottles, 70 quart bottles and a number of large jugs.

Police took a sample of the beer and mash for analysis and destroyed the rest, Cons. H. D. Evanson told the court.

The analysis showed the beer to have 15.1 per cent proof spirits—higher than commercial beer—and 11.7 per cent proof spirits in the beer mash.

Cons. Evanson said Holben had a permit allowing him to manufacture beer for himself and family, but with the conviction for selling it, the permit was rendered invalid.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. There seem to be lots of poodles in Victoria. Where did the breed originate? P.T.

A. In Germany in the 1500s. Poodles have a wide range of color and size. They may be black, white, blue, gray, brown or apricot and weigh from seven to 55 pounds.

Q. Why is a pintail duck called by that name? F.R.T.

A. The name comes from the long, pointed middle feathers of the duck's tail.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Offbeat excuses are common in traffic courts, but this one was further off than most: Stopped by a motorcycle policeman for driving through a stop sign, Gerald M. Ridings, 944 Darwin, was quoted as saying, "I've got a sore foot and it hurt when I put it on the brake."

Ridings, who pleaded not guilty to the charge, was found guilty and fined $10 in city police court today.

He said his first stab at the brake hurt his broken toe, so he drove past the sign and braked again some 15-20 feet away from it, well into the intersection.

For not carrying his vehicle registration in a conspicuous place he was fined another $10.

A "boots and saddle" barn dance sponsored by the Victoria Riding Academy Club will be held at the Saanichton Agricultural Hall Saturday, July 23, from 9 p.m. to midnight.

The Rodeo Rascals will be featured and the dance is open to the public.

Refreshments will be available. Tickets can be obtained from club members or at the Agricultural Hall prior to the dance.

New passenger car registrations in June last numbered 4,243 as against 4,715 in June last year the B.C. Motor Vehicle Branch revealed today. Total registrations from January to June this year were 17,673 as against 18,537 for the corresponding period in 1959.

Capt. W. G. Beachum, Cmdr. John C. Haynie, and Cmdr. P. H. Spears, staff officers from the U.S. naval shipyard at Bremerton, are at HMC Dockyard today for a series of meetings with staff officers of the flag officer, Pacific Coast.

Capt. L. L. Atwood, director of naval intelligence at Ottawa Headquarters, is visiting the RCN Pacific Command this week for talks with staff officers.

He is a former chief of staff to the flag officer, Pacific Coast.

Weather here will continue with sunshine and cloud bands but there is still no sign of rain, weatherman Bill Mackie said today.

While there has been "spotty" rain on the Island's northwest coast, with storm activity in the Pacific, there is little chance of Victoria being touched by the storm fringe.

Last measurable rain here was June 18, though such extended dry periods are common for this time of year.

Jackson Filtness, 17, of 1718 Fort, was recovering today in St. Joseph's Hospital from head injuries sustained when the bicycle he was riding collapsed under him on Belleville Street.

A telegraph boy, he was thrown to the pavement when his front wheel buckled. He struck his head on a curb.

He was unconscious for about 10 minutes while being taken to hospital by city police.

Oak Bay Social Credit League will nominate candidates for the next provincial election at a meeting in the municipal hall July 28.

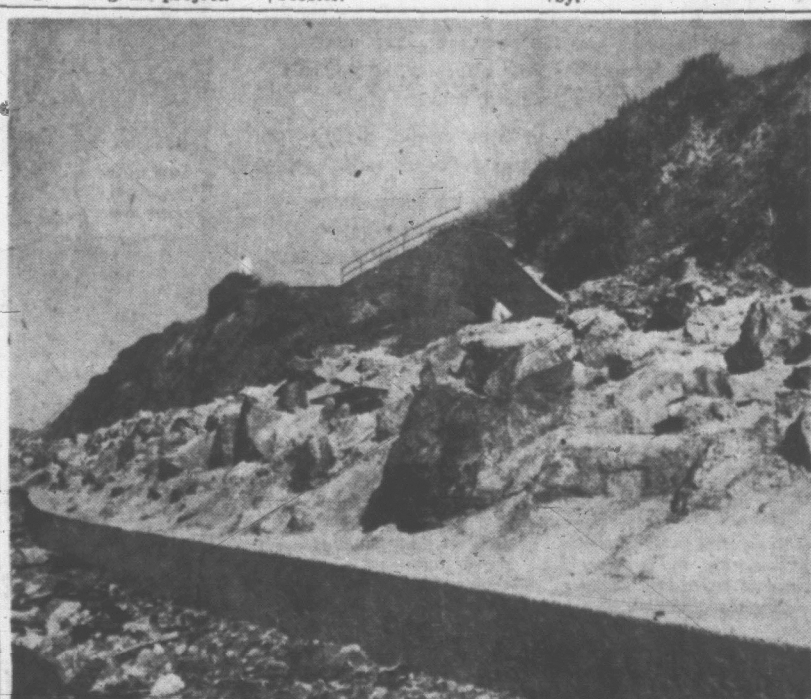

Only Seared candidate to come forward for nomination so far is Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay.

Films and live entertainment will be presented at a Scottish Night performance Friday at 8 p.m. in Beacon Hill Park produced by Victoria and District Film Council and sponsored by B.C. Electric.

Artists will be The Highland Willies and Adeline Duncan's Scottish Dancers. Films will be The Heart Is Highland and The Royal Visit.

The old street car tracks on Johnson Street bridge will be removed this fall, city engineer's department reported today. Eastbound traffic will be detoured over the Point Ellice Bridge during the project.

New passenger car registrations in June last numbered 4,243 as against 4,715 in June last year the B.C. Motor Vehicle Branch revealed today. Total registrations from January to June this year were 17,673 as against 18,537 for the corresponding period in 1959.

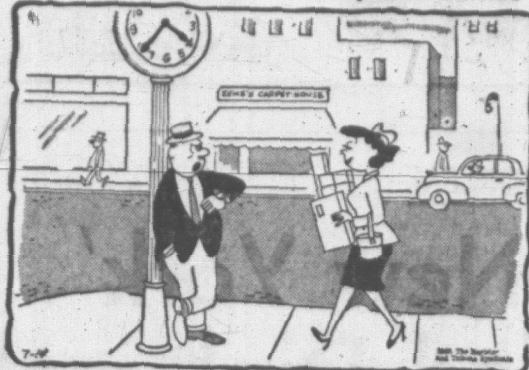

NATURALLY RUGGED appearance of foreshore at Holland Point has been preserved to some extent despite installation of retaining wall designed to stop erosion. Boulders from beach have been incorporated in wall, above, which runs along waterfront promenade. (Times photo.)

Protect Garden Furniture With Special New Covers

By PENNY SAVER

Do you have to make a frantic dash for shelter with your garden furniture each time a rain shower threatens? If so, you'll want to see brand new line in protective heavy gauge plastic covers that has just arrived in one downtown store. Especially made to withstand outdoor use, covers are in dark grey and will provide protection against sun, dirt, dust or rain.

Covers are 100 per cent waterproof with seams that are electronically welded to prevent leaks. They're grease resistant, will clean easily with soap and water or a damp cloth and have snug-fitting elasticized binding to anchor them to furniture in spite of gusty winds!

Whatever the shape of your garden furniture, there are covers to fit. Covers that fit all chairs cost $3.50 while glider covers that measure about 81 inches by 35 inches are priced at $5.95. Other covers include a rectangular shape, measuring 54 inches by 24 inches by 20 inches. This one sells for $4.95.

Imported tabi socks, specially made to be worn with popular thong sandals, are now in town. These are nylon stretchies, fashioned with separate big toe, and are priced at 39 cents a pair. You can choose from shades of pink, blue, white or tan.

When youngsters complain of dryness or chafing due to wet swim suits or sticky weather, be prepared by having some soothing skin balm on hand. One I've seen is very inexpensive, just 69 cents for an eight-ounce bottle or 39 cents for four ounces.

Handy balm has a fragrant scent and will double up as a powder base or after-shaving lotion. Sunburn or windburn can be treated by applying skin balm. This is one item that deserves a place in your medicine cabinet.

For information on any of these items give Penny a ring at EV 2-3131.

Victorian Gary Small Takes Bride In Yukon

Of interest in Victoria is the marriage of Miss Catherine H. Firth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Firth of Whitehorse, Yukon, and Gary Small, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Small of Victoria. The wedding took place in Sacred Heart Cathedral, Whitehorse, with Father O. M. Triggs officiating. He was assisted by the bride's brothers, servers Tom Firth and Howard Firth. Mrs. J. T. Parsons, organist, played traditional music and Paul Choquette was soloist.

Bride chose a regal gown of nylon sheer designed with basque bodice, empire lines and lily-point sleeves. Scooped neckline was accented with clipped lace appliques and rhinestones. A dainty coronet of rhinestones and seed pearls held her silk illusion veil.

RCMP Cons. Guy Lanoue of Watson Lake, Y.T., was groomsmen and Jack Gordon, Cranbrook and Larry Farden, Whitehorse, ushers.

Following their honeymoon in Dawson City, Y.T., newlyweds are making their home at 19 Cook Street, Victoria.

RAISED ALMOND MUFFINS

Half cup roasted unblanched almonds, 1 cake or package yeast, 1 cup warm water, 2 teaspoons sugar, 6 tablespoons shortening, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 cups scalded milk, 5 cups sifted all-purpose flour.

Chop almonds. Crumble yeast into warm water mixed with 2 teaspoons sugar and let stand 5 minutes. Mix shortening, salt and remaining 2 tablespoons sugar milk. Cool to lukewarm.

Add yeast mixture. Blend in flour and almonds and beat until smooth. Cover bowl closely, and set in warm place to rise. When doubled in bulk (about 2 to 2½ hours), stir well and spoon into greased muffin pans.

Allow to rise until double in bulk (about 1 hour). Bake in hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) 25 to 30 minutes.

Makes 2½ dozen muffin rolls.

Costume jewelry that discolors the skin may simply need a good brushing with warm, soapy water. Then rinse and dry thoroughly and coat with colorless nail polish.

Diamond Wedding Anniversary

From as far away as Manitoba and California, the family of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brinkworth of Avon Court, 490 Vancouver Street, are gathering to celebrate the couple's diamond wedding anniversary next Monday. All of their nine children, many of their 21 grandchildren and their 10 great-grandchildren will be with them at a reception in the Glenshiel Hotel from 2 to 5 p.m.

Married in Belmont, Man., July 13, 1890, Mr. and Mrs. Brinkworth moved to Lipton, Sask., in 1904. Both Mrs. Brinkworth and her husband have vivid recollections of the pioneer experiences that they shared with other settlers.

Mayor of Lipton for several years, Mr. Brinkworth owned and operated a car and farm machinery business which is now run by one of their sons, Ralph Brinkworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Brinkworth moved to Victoria on Mr. Brinkworth's retirement in 1947. Ralph Brinkworth, his wife and their two children, Margaret and Cameron, will be among family members at the reception.

Other out-of-town relatives attending will be their granddaughter, Mrs. Don Turner, Sacramento, Calif., a grandson, Dr. J. F. McPherson, Neepawa, Man., and another grandson and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Glynn Williams and their two children, Glenys and Gregg, all of Regina, Sask.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Brinkworth are members of the Centennial United Church.

Newlyweds Live In Saskatchewan

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Sater are now living in Saskatchewan after a quiet wedding in the Lutheran Church, Cedar Hill Road, and a honeymoon in Seattle and Vancouver. The bride, the former Miss Mattie Ophelm, Victoria, was given in marriage by William Budd. Her groom is from Lacadena, Sask. Rev. V. Propp officiated at the evening ceremony.

A navy blue suit with white accessories and mauve orchid corsage was worn by the bride. In her hand she carried a white Bible, topped with an orchid and white streamers.

Cousin of the bride and only attendant, Mrs. Anna Crofts, chose a royal blue two-piece dress and white hat and accessories. She had pink roses in corsage.

K. McRitchie, an old friend of the groom, was best man. Ray Van Druten sang "Because" during the signing of the register. Mrs. Propp was organist.

Nick Baier proposed the toast to the bride at a reception in the Glenshiel Hotel.

Donation—It was reported at a recent meeting of Woman's Auxiliary, Ganges Anglican Church, that $183.50 has been contributed by various Anglican organizations on Salt Spring Island toward the Anglican Theological College at the University of British Columbia. Mrs. G. H. Holmes presided and was assisted in devotional by Mrs. N. Howland. Mrs. G. Laundry was appointed prayer partner secretary and Mrs. V. L. Jackson gave sewing report.

I JUST LOVE SUMMER PATIO PARTIES—don't you? And this summer there's a new cracker baked by McCormick's that will make your out-of-doors entertaining more enjoyable than ever. SNACKERS is the name of this new cracker delicacy. They're specially made by McCormick's for casual snacks or fancy trays. And, just listen to this! Every box of McCormick's Snackers contains an assortment of four dainty shapes—rounds, triangles, fingers and squares. Just imagine the attractive party trays you can design with Snackers four popular shapes served plain or with a variety of spreads.

PRETTY FEET ARE A VERY IMPORTANT PART of your beauty on the beach. Don't let unsightly corns and blisters spoil the good looks of your feet this summer. To make sure, get rid of corns the modern way—with liquid FREEZONE. There's no dangerous cutting, no bulky plasters, when you use this liquid corn remover. Just use the handy glass applicator to drop Freezone on the corn and quickly pain begins to fade. In just a few days your corn is completely gone. Freezone is good for calluses, too. Ask for Freezone at any drug-counter and keep your feet in beach-beauty condition all year long.

A WELL-KNOWN FASHION MODEL told me her secret of poise and good-grooming. She relies on the protection of ETIQUET (Deodorant and Anti-Perspirant) to keep her fresh and dainty through a day of fashion shows and photography. You'll find Etiket is absolutely safe for all your fine clothes and sheerest fabrics. Yes, you can count on Etiket—Cream, in jar or tube—for complete, day-long daintiness. Experts agree that a cream deodorant is the most effective type. For convenience at home and particularly when travelling, try Etiket in the handy tube—unbreakable and so easy to pack.

DOES HAY FEVER make the summer miserable for you? Here's a letter from a hay fever sufferer who says: "In July and August I am likely to sneeze and blow a great deal with hay fever. With my hay fever I have slight asthmatic symptoms. But I am thankful to say that I have now found in RAZ-MAH a remedy that gives me very satisfactory relief from the difficult breathing of asthma. Moreover, when I use RAZ-MAH I get great relief from sneezing and blowing and from itchy, irritated eyes. I heartily recommend RAZ-MAH to everyone who suffers as I have done." If you are plagued with the misery of hay fever or asthma, do start taking RAZ-MAH. For young children: RAZ-MAH Greys Juniors.

Newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gamble are pictured cutting their wedding cake following their recent marriage. Bride, the former Penny Scouler, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Scouler of Victoria, and her groom is the son of Mrs. G. Clark, Victoria, and E. Gamble, Shawnigan Lake. Couple are now making their home in Victoria.

These Facial Exercises Will Bring Good Results

A recent letter says, "If possible would you please print again the facial exercises you gave us last year? They were really wonderful! I had them copied but have lost them and would like very much to have them again."

Many women have written me about the good results they have had with these exercises. Another letter says, "After using your facial exercises for a number of months, friends are beginning to ask me what I am doing. They wonder if I am using a new cream since they seem to feel that I am looking much younger these days. I can see the difference myself."

Here are two good facial exercises:

1. Sit in front of a mirror. Pull the right corner of your mouth up toward your right ear as far as you can. Hold this position while you count to 10 or 15. Slowly, relax. Now pull the left corner of your
2. Sit in front of a mirror. Lift all the muscles of the face as though you were sniffing an odor. Hold while you count. Relax and continue.

DEAR ABBY

'Round-Table' Decision

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married almost 40 years. We raised five children who are all married and have families of their own. I have a great problem with my husband. He comes to the dining-room table with only his shorts on.

I believe in respecting the place where we eat. When a man asks the Lord to bless his food, he should have more than his shorts on. I don't approve of this and want to know if I am wrong or is my husband? He keeps saying, "A man's home is his castle."

GERTIE. DEAR GERTIE: A man's home IS his castle—but if the "King" came to the palace dining-room with only his shorts on, the "Queen" would have every right to crown him.

DEAR ABBY: I am at a loss. I divorced my husband six years ago after 16 years of a very bad marriage. We decided that rather than bring up our children (we had three) in an atmosphere of fighting and quarrelling, it would be better to call it quits.

Two years ago our daughter was married. She was 19 and the boy was 20. They had a baby the first year. Now my daughter comes to me saying she wants to divorce her husband. She says he isn't ready to settle down and their love is "dead."

I tried to talk her into trying to make a go of her marriage for the sake of the baby, but she throws it in my teeth that I divorced her father, so how can I tell her to stick to her husband? Can you help me, Abby? She is so young.

STUCK FOR WORDS. DEAR STUCK: Your daughter needs marital counsel from a clergyman, family counselor or some happily married person who has shown by his own example that marriage problems don't always have to be solved in the divorce courts. A very wise man once said, "Example is not only the best way to teach—it is the only way."

DEAR ABBY: Not long ago you printed the sad story of the baby girl who died from eating ordinary dishwashing detergent. I was surprised to hear how many people had this story on their lips after reading your column. Many mothers, including myself, have silently thanked you.

However, we almost lost our three-year-old boy last week. He drank ORDINARY NOSE DROPS! The label on the bottle did not state what would happen if taken internally. Not realizing how serious it was, we waited until it was almost too late before getting him to a doctor. Please find room for this in your column, Abby; so many people leave nose drops around where children can get at the bottle. Many thanks. CONCERNED.

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She answers ALL letters.

Bride's Parents' Garden, Scene Of Evening Wedding Reception

Lovely garden at the home of the bride's parents was setting for a reception following the early evening wedding which united Elizabeth Margaret Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Walker of Snowdrop Avenue and Roger Harris Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Catterall of Cadillac Avenue. A three-tier cake, embedded in tulie dotted with sweet peas, centred the bridal table. It was flanked by four white candles. Col. G. Seymour Bagot proposed the toast to the bride.

Marriage took place in St. Columba's Church with Canon J. Rogers officiating. Church, which was decorated by the bride's father, was banked with blue iris and Esther Reid daisies and pews were marked with red roses on white satin bows.

A gown in short length was worn by the bride as she walked up the aisle on her father's arm. Bodice of lace was enhanced by three-quarter length sleeves and a bateau neckline. The swirling organza skirt was posed over heavy satin. Her veil was in fingertip length. Bride carried a white lace-covered Bible, topped with a single red rose.

Gowns in wedgewood blue silk organza were worn by attendants, Miss Lynne Snowsell, Vanpouver, and Miss Alix Hooper, Seattle. Both wore tiny blue taffeta bow bandeau trimmed with tiny veils and carried sprays of sweet peas. Nieces of the bride, Ann Williamson, Pitt Meadows and Jacqueline Walker, wore frocks in white flocked nylon over blue taffeta. Their headpieces were miniature bows and they carried summer flowers.

Roy Morrow, Chilliwack, was best man and ushers were Arthur Walker, bride's brother and Cliff Hooper, groom's cousin.

A dress with matching three-quarter length coat was worn by the bride's mother. She complemented the grey silk organza ensemble with white accessories. A powder blue outfit and white accessories were worn by the groom's mother.

For a honeymoon in the interior of British Columbia and the United States, the bride wore a navy dress with matching jacket. Her hat was of white petals and she had white accessories.

Newlyweds will live at 608 Davida Place.

Mrs. and Mr. R. Wehrli of Brisco, B.C., wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Ann Lilly, to Thomas Martin Liddell, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Liddell of Victoria. The wedding will take place in St. Aidan's United Church, Saturday, August 13, at 7 p.m. Miss Wehrli is a graduate of the 1960 class, Royal Jubilee School of Nursing.—(Photos by Chevrons)

Donna Sinclair Bride Of Vernon O'Brien

Metropolitan United Church was banked with fragrant summer flowers for the marriage of Donelda Gertrude Mae (Donna) Sinclair and Vernon O'Brien, Kirkland Lake, Ont. Dr. F. E. H. James conducted the evening service. Bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Y. Sinclair of Victoria.

The tall, attractive bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She wore a white tulle gown fashioned with a lace bodice and panel extending to the floor-length hemline. Her chapel veil was held by a sequin and pearl tiara. She carried a bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Mrs. M. Sturgeon sang "O Perfect Love" during signing of the register.

White nylon sheer gowns were worn by maid of honor, Miss Frances Sinclair, and bridesmaids, Beverly and Vicky Sinclair. Dresses had pink and turquoise cummerbunds embroidered with tiny floral sprays. They carried bouquets of pink carnations and wore carnation bandeaux.

Sidney Upton was best man and ushers were Bill Watson and Dennis Crookshanks.

From Regina

Mrs. Daisy Cook, Regina, Sask., is presently staying at the Estevan Avenue home of her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Nash. Before leaving Victoria at the end of July Mrs. Cook will travel up-Island.

Membership Quality Stressed By Speaker at BPW Convention

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs is aiming to put itself out of business.

Toronto lawyer Margaret P. Hyndman, QC, told delegates at the federation's 17th biennial meeting here today that the aim of the Business and Professional Women's Clubs has been and always will be to work for the day the organization is not necessary.

She quickly reviewed some of the accomplishments of the Canadian federation during its 30-year history in the legislative, educational, social and political fields.

She suggested membership, leadership, expression and attitudes as the four headings for future planning. Membership consisted of quality of the individual, quantity as an important facet in making representation before governments, and diversification to obtain the benefit of many skills within the organization. Leadership consisted of taking ing and giving, developing new leaders and recognizing potential leaders even though it "may be very mousy-looking or a great big noise."

The trend towards seniority in business advancement had no place in a voluntary organization.

One of the club objectives should be the improvement of the individual members.

"Efficiency in our own work is not enough but it is the first requisite," she said.

"Another of the objectives should be the improvement of technique in working together with men."

Women must be better, better prepared, assiduous and more concerned about their jobs.

"It is most important to forget we are women when on the job. As one grows older it's easier," she quipped.

Those who were old enough to remember the 30s were compelled to remember when women were unwanted in the business, industrial and financial fields. Although not all the changes which took place were attributable to the Business and Professional Women's Clubs, the organization had many outstanding accomplishments.

Miss Hyndman, immediate past president of the international federation, listed three outstanding examples: The insistence that women be allowed to serve in the armed forces, the opening of the highest administrative offices in all civil service departments to men and women equally and the "growing representation at civic levels, even if we have not achieved our full share on the provincial and national levels."

Fitted Silhouette Heads Fashion Trend for Fall

PARIS (Reuters)—Fashions will be "fit" for fall and winter, according to ready-to-wear collections now being shown in Paris.

Couture houses and specialized, mass-production designers showing their collections before the pace-setting couture houses, scheduled to open theirs at the end of July, see trends in terms of a return to snug-fitting silhouettes, belted waistlines, and molded midrifts in smooth princess lines or below inset yokes.

These are the basic clothes which the majority of women in France are going to buy and wear next winter, regardless of any revolution which the couturiers may launch.

There is big news in three major silhouettes, interpreted individually by ready-to-wear designers, ranging from the couture "pret a porter" to low-priced manufacturers who chalk up the volume sales in the department stores.

The sheath and the shirt-waist share top honors, with a well-defined fit obtained by belts or molded midriff. It would seem that the cycle of loose-waisted, relaxed fashions is on the ebb although many models compromise by featuring a tight fit at the front contrasted by loose, full-back treatments. Coats and suit jackets as well as dresses interpret this theme.

The third trend-setter will be the princess silhouette, re-adapted in the classic manner with shaping close to the body and modified flare to the skirt. A note to watch, especially in ready-to-wear clothes, is the indication of a lowered waistline, dropped to the hipbones and paired with slender pleated skirts.

Skirt lengths will continue high, with hems ranging anywhere from 16 to 18 inches above the floor. The exaggerated knee-cap length used by the couturiers and now to be seen on Paris streets in full-skirted summer dresses will be lowered this fall.

Water-Bombing Douses Flames

(Compiled from CP)

LYTTON—A forest fire raced to within two miles of this Fraser Canyon town Wednesday before water-bombing planes checked the onrushing flames.

A farmhouse and buildings and a planer mill were destroyed before the fire was brought under control.

All available men were recruited from the streets, their homes, and public buildings to fight the fire.

Fifty forest service firefighters raced in from Kamloops, 100 miles away. CPR section men from miles around converged on the spot and high-way construction men from six miles distant took a 3,000-gallon water tank to the scene.

The fire broke out around 1 p.m. between the railroad tracks and the highway.

Until the water-bombing Avenger aircraft arrived, it was feared that it would reach the upper section of the town. People prepared to evacuate as the flames ripped through jack pine.

Lytton's womenfolk manned garden hoses while their husbands were away to prevent hot ash from setting fire to their homes.

Temperatures, which the previous day had soared to 110, were in the high 90s Wednesday afternoon, but high winds increased the fire hazard.

BARGE SUNK

VANCOUVER—An oil tanker collided with two barges in Vancouver's English Bay Wednesday night, sinking one of the barges.

The tanker Pacific Wind and the two barges, towed by the tug Navy Jack, collided near the First Narrows. One of the barges sank and the tanker rode up on top of the second barge.

Tugs managed to free the tanker and barge about two hours later.

BURNED TO DEATH

VERNON—Charles Uzzell, 84, was burned to death Tuesday when fire destroyed his cabin.

IRON LUNG MOVED

PRINCE GEORGE—An iron lung was flown here from Vancouver Wednesday night for the city's fourth polio victim in the last two weeks.

Mrs. Sylvia Birchall, 30, was admitted to hospital Tuesday.

Originally it was planned to fly Mrs. Birchall to Vancouver with a portable iron lung but medical officials later decided to bring a full-sized lung here.

CLEAR CORRIDORS

PRINCE GEORGE—Inspectors from the provincial fire marshal's office Wednesday ordered corridors cleared of beds at the new Prince George regional hospital to make room for escape in the event of fire. Facilities at the 125-bed hospital have been overtaxed and extra beds have had to be placed in the passages.

NEW TB TESTS

VANCOUVER—British Columbia Tuberculosis Society officials expressed amazement Wednesday at the success of a drive that resulted in 45,000 persons, 95 per cent of the populations of Penticton, Kam-loops and Prince George, being tested for TB infection.

Executive director Fred T. Arnott said the success of the drive was due to the ease of administering skin tests.

Until skin tests were used it was necessary to transport bulky portable X-ray machines by truck. In the tests, skin surrounding a small amount of injected tuberculin serum will redden if TB has ever been present in the body.

In the drive, 30 adults and two child victims were discovered.

A 20-member team formed by the British Columbia health department and the society administered the tests over a three-month period.

VICTORIA AIRMAN, Flying Officer W. T. "Bill" Floyd, has been promoted to the rank of flight lieutenant. It was reported today. Son of Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Floyd, 1175 Oscar Street, F/L Floyd is stationed at the Canadian Joint Air Training Command at Rivers Camp, Manitoba. He is a pilot.

B.C. to Take Share of 112 TB Refugees

OTTAWA (UPI)—Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough Wednesday announced plans for the admission to Canada of 112 tubercular refugees and their families from Germany, Austria and Italy.

Mrs. Fairclough said the entry of the 208 persons involved would be a further Canadian gesture in World Refugee Year. Some 100 tubercular refugees were admitted earlier this year.

Mrs. Fairclough said provincial authorities agreed to provide hospital care and treatment facilities for the refugees. Nova Scotia will receive five, New Brunswick five, Quebec 15, Ontario 40, Manitoba five, Saskatchewan 10, Alberta 20, and British Columbia 12.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—During the summer of 1949, the B.W. and I met an American friend in Paris who wanted to take us to see a great dance team called Darvas and Julia.

They were a big European hit—eager to try America—but a little scared.

But they did come the next year, first to Miami, where they were also a smash, then to the Latin Quarter, then on to Chicago, Las Vegas, etc. And over the years you saw them on TV, the lean, agile, slick-haired guy tossing the girl down to the floor in a sensational, breath-taking split.

It's incredible now that my long-time friend, Nicky Darvas, the dance man, should be the author of the best-seller, "How I Made $2,000,000 on the Stock Market."

And that comedian Alan King should be making up jokes such as, "I'm going to write a book called 'How I Made $2,000,000 in the Brinks Robbery.'"

Nicky's secret, you probably know, is to buy glamor stocks and sell fast when they begin to slide.

"I don't examine a company's financial statements... they influence me!" says Nicky, a Hungarian by birth, with an Iranian passport, and officially a resident of France, although actually he lives in El Morocco and other night clubs.

SHIRLEY JONES
... negligee layout

JAYNE MEADOWS
... to S. America?

He also admits having one adviser who's good—in fact, invaluable—because he's always wrong.

"Just like some people are usually right, some are usually wrong," explained Nicky the other night. "Dis man says, 'I don't like dat stock.' I wait a little—and I buy it."

"I have another negative expert in show business. He says, 'I like dat step.' I take it out."

"DON'T PRINT THAT!" A famed actress' husband phoned a newspaper to demand retraction of a statement that another star had appeared on more magazine covers than his wife... A noted actor blew up at his wife in a cafe and yelled: "How stupid can you be!" And she screamed back: "Stupid enough to have married you!"

Steve Allen and Jayne Meadows are contemplating a South American movie deal in which they'd be their own producers... Nevada's worried that Wyoming and two other western states may legalize gambling.

Paramount wants to co-star Elvis Presley and Juliet Prowse (now in "GI Blues") in two more... Raucous comic B. S. Pulley's writing the foreword to Belle Barth's book (Her rowdy record, "If I Embarrass You, Tell Your Friends," had a 50,000-copy advance sale)... Buddy Hackett was announced at the Hotel Concord as "official food taster for our Olympic teams."

Rona Jaffe's book, "Away From Home," is due August 12... Shirley Jones, who wears only a slip in "Elmer Gantry," will do a negligee layout for Esquire... Before sailing for Europe, James Stewart said at Leone's he hoped to visit Russia.

Earl's Pearls: Definition of newlyweds: A married couple whose credit is still good.

Today's Best Laugh: Jackie Gleason admitted the putting of golf pro Dr. Cary Middlecoff and said, "Doc, when I want a golf ball removed, I'll call you!"

Wish I'd Said That: Always remember that money isn't everything—but also remember to make a lot of it before talking such nonsense.

Red Skelton insists at the Las Vegas Sands that he isn't jealous of Art Carney's winning a TV Emmy award: "But I think you ought to know that Art comes from Red China, and had his eyes fixed."... That's earl, brother.

They Like Mall In Kalamazoo

NEW YORK (AP)—The people of Kalamazoo, Mich., like their downtown shopping mall so well that they are enlarging it.

The attractive two-block mall—the first permanent one in the United States—was established last year.

Now property owners and the city are putting up another $25,000 to add a third block to the traffic-free promenade for shoppers.

As the pioneer in the establishment of a permanent mall, Kalamazoo is being followed by some other cities.

A year ago mall fever raged and scores of cities set up temporary malls, hoping they would point to an immediate solution to the problems of deteriorating downtown areas.

But the trend has changed. Many cities discovered that temporary malls turn out to be only fly-by-night promotion gimmicks. Now their thinking is toward permanent programs and well-planned tests.

Knoxville, Tenn., has torn down its 63-year-old, block-long market house to make way for a permanent mall.

Miami Beach, Fla., has approved a $600,000 bond issue for development of a permanent mall.

"Kalamazoo mall has been pretty much a success," says Hayden Bradford, business editor of The Kalamazoo Gazette. "Without doubt the mall has given downtown a much-needed psychological lift."

UNHAPPY CITIES
But some cities were quickly disillusioned by mall tests.

Directors of the Evansville, Ind., Downtown Merchants' Association asked for abandonment of their mall so automobile traffic and parking could be restored. Middletown, Ohio, gave up after a couple of weeks. Eugene, Ore., dropped its plans.

"Enthusiasm is much lower and the outlook is more realistic," says Laurence A. Alexander, president of National Downtown Services of New York, which has acted as consultant for many cities planning malls and other downtown improvements.

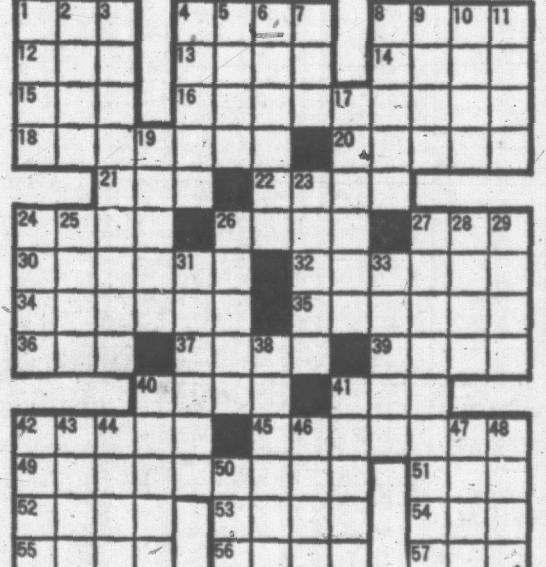

Mr. Skyscraper is not a naïf. He counts his fur covered horns five of the New World and admire his large furry we see him only on exhibition ears. You may also notice in a zoo. The sight of him, that his long lips as prehensile breath taking, for after all, you will surely notice his big world. He may be 19 feet tall and tip the scales at two tons. He is such an amazing animal that, when we see him, we tend to forget to look for details—such as whether he has horns.

The fact is, both Mr. and Mrs. Giraffe have horns, though maybe not the kind you notice. Every adult giraffe has at least one pair of small horns growing from his or her brow. These little horns, just a few inches long, are covered with flesh, skin and mottled hair to match the animal's handsome coat.

Certain giraffes of northern Africa have—apart from the horns—extra horns growing from the center of the forehead between the eyes. It too is covered with hair. Once in a while, an old grandfather giraffe sprouts a second pair of horns, just a few inches long. Horns grow four and five, however, are not much bigger than buttons. Two Perhaps the giraffe is lucky that all his horns—two, three, four or five of them—do not grow to be as big as, say, those of a moose.

If you go near his enclosure at the zoo, Mr. Giraffe may often enough to knock the bend down his handsome head enemy senseless or even dis-to look at you. Then you can locate his neck.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Mike M. Gonan, age 14, of Shaker Heights, Ohio, for his question:

Does a Giraffe Have Horns?

SIDING

"Keystone" clear kiln-dried siding is the finest available—a quality material for all applications where perfection is required.

THE LUMBER
Western red cedar lumber is noted for its exceptional durability, light weight and a beautiful color, ranging from almost pure white of the narrow sapwood to reddish brown heartwood.
It is very easily worked, is free from pitch, takes and holds stains, paints and enamels excellently, and is superior for glue-ing. Because of these qualities, Western red cedar is especially adaptable for use as bevel siding for quality homes.

DURABILITY
Western red cedar is one of the most durable species known. Its heart-wood is highly resistant to decay, and can be counted on for long and worthy service where conditions favoring decay prevail.

WEATHERING CHARACTERISTICS
paint or other protective finishes, Western red cedar weathers to an intriguing grey color having little or no sheen.
It is one of the most stable species of lumber, having very little tendency to cup and pull loose from fastenings when exposed to the weather.

INSULATING QUALITIES
Western red cedar has the highest insulating value of all commonly-used soft woods—another point in its favor as siding, and of particular importance when used as roof decking.

TV REPORT

By MICHAEL ROSE (TV Editor Phil Lee on Holidays)

Democrats Choose Vice-Presidential Candidate

Highlight of the Democratic convention tonight is the balloting for vice-presidential candidate. Friday night the delegates will move to Memorial Coliseum. If the weather is fine, and wind up the proceedings. Viewers who can do without United States conventioning will have a week's respite next week before the Republicans start their deliberations in Chicago.

Although the content of the convention may inspire ribald remarks from local audiences this is certainly not true of the coverage. Handling of the event by the three networks can only be described as blanket and to date no one should have any criticisms about omissions and few about quality.

Details of camera placement include a remote control camera suspended from the roof of the sports arena and able to be rotated 360 degrees in a horizontal plane and 180 in the vertical from a panel in the main control booth.

Delegates on the convention floor are outnumbered by the press, television, and radio representatives and trailed by reporters assigned to do nothing but stay with their own man.

The convention is certainly the biggest in the party's history, it may not turn out to be the best, but it will certainly be the best covered.

16-Year Columbia Power Talks Reach Climax

Victoria Daily Times 29
THURS., JULY 14, 1960

Technical talks on development of the Columbia River opened in Ottawa today between representatives of Canada and the United States.

B.C. deputy lands minister E. W. Bassett is supporting Canada's position on the Columbia, which was adopted at preliminary talks in Victoria and eastern Canada.

Times Legislative reporter, Frank Rutter, has prepared a background story on the Columbia negotiations:

By FRANK RUTTER
Canada and the United States today opened their most important talks in 16 years on joint development of the Columbia River.

For the first time Canada is able to offer a concrete basis for negotiation; the United States, too, is expected to make a formal proposal at the two-day session.

British Columbia and the federal government have gone into the talks agreed on their approach to the United States.

Offer Awaited

They have, at least, agreed on an initial sequence of developing the Columbia River for hydro power and flood control.

They now must wait for the United States to show what it is prepared to give in return for the power which it will make and the flooding which will be avoided by controlling the Columbia's flow in Canada.

British Columbia officials want to know exactly how much in power the United States is willing to return for consumption in this province. They also want to know how much in money, or an equivalent credit, the United States will pay for flood control.

These two keys of international parity will determine how far British Columbia will open its doors—how much of its land it will sacrifice beneath huge storage lakes of water.

Farm Land Threat

This was the main point of discussion at the latest joint policy liaison meetings between Ottawa and Victoria.

This also holds the key as to which overall development scheme is adopted—for some of those proposed would flood out much of the rich agricultural Kootenay Valley.

The Canadian position is believed to be in favor of an initial development of two projects in Canada, one in the U.S.

That is: a dam at the foot of the Arrow Lakes on the Columbia, later a dam above the lakes at Mica Creek; and a dam at Libby, in Montana.

Best Compromise

Such an approach would give the U.S. what it wants most immediately—power and flood control and a far project at Libby; and B.C. what it wants—prime development of the Arrow Lakes, cheapest of all major Columbia proposed projects, and protection for the time being of the Kootenay; and Ottawa, part of what it wants—a project of longer range than just one dam.

A look at the fundamentals might clear some of the clouds and red herrings which have decorated the Columbia talks during the past few months.

First, at the river itself. It's 1,200 miles long—460 miles in B.C.; a 259,000 square mile drainage area includes parts of Idaho, Montana, Washington, Oregon, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada as well as B.C.

It flows in a big "hook" through B.C.'s Rocky Mountain Trench before dipping south below the U.S. border and, eventually, the sea.

The immediate power potential for Canada, says B.C. Lands Minister Ray Williston, is about two million kilowatts, or 4.68 horsepower. That's based on a 60 per cent load factor—few customers would have all their switches "on" all the time.

The overall power potential of the river—internationally—is at least 16 million kilowatts according to the International Engineering Board which studied its possibilities for Canada and the U.S.

B.C. currently uses about 2.5 million kilowatts of energy; by 2010 B.C. will use almost 50 million.

U.S. Exhausted

The U.S. northwest uses about 5.6 million kilowatts, will require 55 million by 2010. The big difference is that the U.S. has used up nearly all available sources at the moment.

So the U.S. wants its power in a hurry.

B.C.'s need isn't so immediate, but its growth will be greater. There will be a shortage by 1966 or 1968, says B.C. hydro experts, unless new sources are in use.

Two major sources are available: the Columbia and the Peace River in northeastern B.C. The province says it needs both.

How the Columbia's power can be harnessed was studied by the engineers for the International Joint Commission of negotiators, and the IJC recommended three basic grand-scale, billion-dollar plans for overall development.

One of these involved a series of storage and power dams on the Columbia and a separate, small development on the Kootenay.

The other two involved diversion of the Kootenay into the Columbia. They differed in the location and amount of diversion.

If any of the three protagonists in the Columbia drama can be said to have had "pet" plans, then B.C. favored the non-diversion plan as it protected the Kootenays from any major developments. Ottawa apparently favored a diversion plan because it was, in the grand scale, cheaper, provided a little more power and might kill a U.S. plant on the lower Kootenay, making the U.S. more dependent on Canada.

Sequence Agreed

The U.S. wants this plant, at Libby, and thus would naturally go for non-diversion. Weighed against this would be Libby's cost and its relation to the "benefits" Canada would seek.

All three plans of the IJC are virtually the same in developments on the lower Canadian portion of the Columbia.

They all include dams on the Arrow Lakes, and at Mica, and at Downie Creek and Revelstoke Canyon, between them. While it is emphasized that these plans are only basic—and may be varied in practice—in theory this initial sequence has apparently been agreed upon by B.C. and Ottawa.

Arrow Lakes dam would cost about $66,000,000. It would have the greatest immediate impact on the U.S.—controlling floods and power flow.

It would store about eight million acre feet of water mostly within the current confines of the lakes. Some land in the Nakusp area would be forfeited, but B.C. engineers say it is not agriculturally of great value.

Because the Arrow Lakes dam would be very near the U.S. border its storage would have the greatest effect on controlling floods in the U.S.

About five years after the Arrow damming is complete (about two years), Mica Creek dam would be built. This is a major project of some $300 million, and it would eventually be a power generating station. It would be made available when B.C. is feeling the power pinch of the late sixties.

The in-between projects would be in the nature of $100 to $120 million apiece, and would be built later.

Kootenay Ignored

All this development has ignored the Kootenay River, parallel to the Columbia, and to the east.

The three IJC plans all call for some Kootenay flooding. The diversionary flooding—which would be considerable—is based on the premise that "storage projects on the Kootenay would provide great local benefits."

If the U.S. were to dam the Kootenay at Libby, a certain amount of water would back into Canada. The damage this would cause—it would be compensated by benefit credits, B.C. hopes—would not be nearly as great as that caused by flooding under either of the two diversion plans.

B.C. believes that without diversion, the eastern Columbia plants will provide B.C. with all the power she needs. In any event, by the beginning of the 1970s the Peace will be harnessed too.

So it may not be necessary to dam the Kootenay at all.

B.C. has had to try to persuade Ottawa that there is no need to plan a dam on the Kootenay (it would be at Bull River), let alone a diversion (of which there could be two, at Copper Creek, 12 miles south of Columbia Lake at the Columbia's head, or at Dorr, only 10 miles north of the U.S. boundary).

Who's going to pay for all this, and how, depends entirely on "what"—that is, what is to be developed.

This brings us back to the meetings which begin today.

At the moment B.C. and Ottawa apparently are considering proposing initial development of only a portion of any overall grandiose scheme.

How Much for B.C.?

Their reaction to any U.S. counter-offer will depend very much on what they will get out of it—in flood control and power benefits.

The professed goal has been a 50-50 split on benefits of all kinds. Whether or not the U.S. will agree is another matter.

Certainly, they should bite at 50 per cent of flood control benefits, because they're getting almost the entire benefit by courtesy of Canada, not half of it.

Who will pay for any initial development in Canada depends also on these factors.

B.C. would like Ottawa to foot a large share of the bill. While the property is in B.C., it is Ottawa that has been doing a lot of the talking and demanding, and therefore should do some paying, too.

50-50 Deal Sought

B.C. would like to latch on to a 50-50 deal which has been bandied about since it was raised by a federal spokesman last year. Ottawa is willing to lend some money to B.C.; but it's not offering to grant very much.

First, however, must come some sort of treaty agreement between Ottawa and Washington.

Hopes are slim that such a treaty can be concluded this year; but a draft might well be, and U.S. Congress, like Canada's Parliament, has not yet adjourned, and could still speed its approval.

Musical Spectacular

TORONTO (CP)—Plans are under way for a Toronto-produced music and dance spectacular in the new $12,000,000 O'Keefe Centre here, it was announced Wednesday.

The centre opens Oct. 1 and the Canadian musical is tentatively scheduled for January. Producer will be Vancouver-born Norman Sedawie, current producer of CBC's Music '60.

He said the "show will be largely Canadian in content and talent, with the occasional inclusion of headliners and review and variety material from outside the country."

GENERAL STRIKE

India Cities Tied Up

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India's violence-ridden government workers' strike entered a critical phase today as other unions started a 24-hour general strike in sympathy.

The port of Bombay was brought to a standstill when 10,000 dock workers failed to appear for the morning shift.

In Calcutta, bus drivers stopped work and many stores, banks and offices were closed.

The token strike was called by the Communist and Socialist-controlled all-India Trade Union Congress and two other labor organizations, claiming a total of 2,000,000 members.

The new challenge came to the government amid mounting sabotage and riots in the third day of the pay strike called among 2,000,000 lower-paid civil servants.

In Bombay a bus was set on fire, two railroad cars were derailed and strikers caused damage at two train stations.

At Budwan, near Calcutta, where police opened fire to restore order Tuesday night, a 24-hour curfew was ordered in the locomotive shed area.

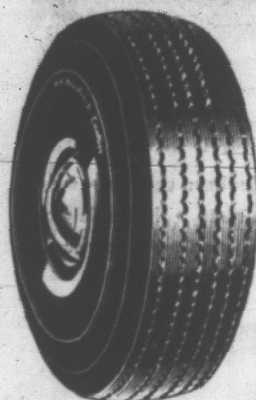

More trouble was expected in other industrial areas.

IMPROVE HANDWRITING
LONDON (CP)—In an effort to combat what it calls "the lowering of handwriting standards" a Handwriting Institute has been established. The non-profit organization will issue charts and instruction sheets to schools.

CCF Leader to Be Chosen Likely to Head New Party

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The CCF party is expected to select a new leader at its national convention in Regina next month and the man chosen will almost inevitably go on to become leader of the proposed new political party.

Thus the leadership race for the new CCF-CLC political party could develop even before the party takes shape, especially if M. J. Coldwell, present head of the CCF party, carries out his declared intention of retiring after 20 years in the party's key post.

Defeated in the general election in 1956, Mr. Coldwell announced his intention to step down. However, he was persuaded to remain as national leader of the CCF for at least two years. He has done so reluctantly.

ELECTION EXPECTED

Now Mr. Coldwell is understood to be desirous of stepping down because of persistent reports that a general election might be called by Prime Minister John Diefenbaker in 1961. Mr. Coldwell does not want to be serving as CCF leader with a general election suddenly on his hands.

Several key members of the CCF are seeking to stall off any move to have a leadership election at the national convention. They don't want the party picking a new leader with the founding convention of the new CCF Canadian Labor Congress political party scheduled to take place between January and July of next year.

PRESSURE PILES UP

However, pressure to make a choice is building up. Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, is pressing for a leadership election at the convention scheduled for August 9 to 11, at Regina.

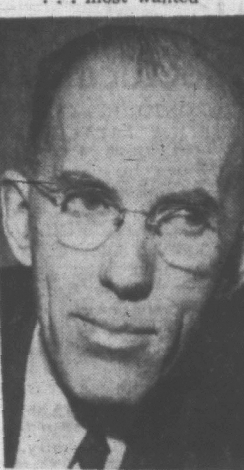

Stanley Knowles, long a prominent member of the party, who went down to defeat along with Mr. Coldwell, would be considered for the leadership. But he is a paid vice-president of the CLC. It would make it difficult for him to run as national CCF leader, although he is a vice-president of that party. It is understood he is not in favor of a leadership election at the August convention.

THEY WANT DOUGLAS

The unanimous choice of any CCF convention for national leader would be Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan. Head of the only CCF government in Canada he would be acceptable to all. But he has repeatedly declared that he has no intention of leaving the premiership to re-enter the federal political field.

David Lewis, Toronto lawyer who has served as national president of the CCF party for several years, is also regarded as a strong contender for the leadership of both the CCF and the new political party. He has indicated that he is available. Hazen Argue already has received support as a candidate.

STEPDAUGHTER SUES FINCH FOR MILLION

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dr. Bernard Finch and Carole Tregoff were sued for $1,000,000 Wednesday by the 12-year-old daughter of the doctor's slain wife.

Patti Dee Daughterty charged that Finch, aided by Miss Tregoff, his 23-year-old sweetheart, murdered Barbara Jean Finch and thus deprived the girl of the comfort and care of her mother.

Finch and Miss Tregoff are being tried a second time on charges they murdered Mrs. Finch a year ago at the doctor's West Covina home. The first trial ended with a deadlocked jury.

Lawyer Edward Raskin said he had no alternative but to file the suit now because the statute of limitations might bar the case from court if he waited.

The second trial is in its third week. Selection of a jury still is going on.

BENNETT INVITES CRITICS UNDER 'GLASS BOWL'

Public Figures of Canada Meet Test of Democracy

The calibre of people in public life in Canada and the United States compares favorably with any other group anywhere, Premier Bennett said Wednesday.

"There is no other way of life so fascinating or so vulnerable," he added. "You are in a glass bowl all the time and everything you do is subject to criticism."

"I would like to put some of our critics in that glass bowl and see how they would make out."

The premier said democracy is on trial everywhere and it is the most difficult form of government ever evolved.

BUILT FROM FAILURE

"It was started in Greece and collapsed... our democratic system has developed through centuries of trial and error and we must guard it jealously."

The premier said he had been watching the U.S. Democratic party convention on TV and was impressed by its calibre.

"It is inspiring to see men of high calibre clashing on basic issues."

The premier said he believes U.S. politics are as good as those in any other country and he thought it unfortunate so many people should attack the U.S. at this time.

TWICE BLESSED

"While in England, I made it clear that we are twice blessed in Canada in being a member of the great British Commonwealth and in having the United States as our neighbor."

"I said no Canadian would choose to have any other neighbor than the United States."

The premier said he expected "considerable investments" of British capital in B.C. but would not mention any names as "ill-timed publicity could discourage investors."

He said "tight money" is now on the way out in both Canada and the United States.

"It is a dirty word in U.S. politics just now... but unfortunately we in Canada are still feeling the effects of our misguided tight money policies."

"It has created unemployment and some of our politicians and writers would like to create more unemployment by trying to scare capital away from this province."

BALLOON SKIRTS PROTESTED

Whose Business Is It How Students Dress?

VANCOUVER (CP)—Can high school students wear balloon skirts and low-slung bottoms as a democratic right? The question got a brief going over at a meeting of school trustees in suburban West Vancouver.

Trustees John Davenport and Tom Phillips said they favored a school uniform at the Tuesday night meeting.

"I'm very much opposed to the way school kids are dressed today," said Mr. Davenport. "Any morning you can see girls with balloon skirts and boys with their bottoms hanging out."

Said Pat Nowlan: "It's none of our business to say whether kids are to wear pleated skirts or not."

The question arose over answers to a questionnaire circulated by a Parent-Teacher Association group.

A total 275 of 305 parents questioned said they were in favor of uniform school dress.

The group has suggested pleated skirts for girls and simple neat clothes for boys.

The school trustees tabled the matter until official correspondence is received from the group.

Boy, 11, Acquitted In Stabbing of Girl

WINCHESTER, England (Reuters)—An 11-year-old boy who told police he liked watching murders on television, Wednesday was acquitted of stabbing a young girl to death and his mother said she will not restrict his TV viewing.

"I do not think that has anything to do with it," the mother told reporters as she took her son home.

The boy, whose name was given in court but not published, had pleaded not guilty to the murder of nine-year-old Iris Dawkins, whose body was found with 39 stab wounds in a park last February.

Judge Sir Gonne Pilcher ordered the boy acquitted after the prosecution presented its case and the defence said there was not enough evidence for conviction.

The mother said she would send her son to another school.

'Brain' to Check Effects Of Radiation on Humans

A B.C. government spokesman confirmed today that the vital statistics of 400,000 British Columbians are being put through an electronic brain at the Chalk River, Ont., research laboratories.

Object is to try and discover what happens to them after exposure to radiation.

British Columbians were chosen for this research because the provincial health department has the most "comprehensive data" on vital statistics of any province in Canada.

The statistics were supplied to Chalk River by the department on a "no name" basis. They offer something of a cross-section of life in B.C., including births, marriages and deaths, and the causes of death from different types of sickness.

The electronic brain in Chalk River sorts out this information and the end result may give scientists an idea of the extent to which people are affected by ordinary every-day radiation—chiefly cosmic rays.

They will then try to assess what would happen if radiation from atomic bombs were superimposed on the effects of natural radiation.

The statistics sent to Chalk River were compiled by the vital statistics division of the B.C. health department, described as "the most outstanding statistical service" in North America.

"It was for that reason that the Chalk River scientists decided to use B.C. statistics for their experiments," the government spokesman said.

"This is actually part of a research project that has been going on for some years. It is far too complex to explain in ordinary terms."

BE WARNED

Radar Traps Nab 23 Drivers

Radar-equipped highway patrol officers charged 23 drivers in Colwood and Sidney RCMP areas in the past two days and seven of them pleaded guilty to speeding charges when they appeared in Colwood court Wednesday.

An additional 38 motorists were warned of "borderline" offences but were not charged, the RCMP said.

Most of the 23 charges laid were for speeding, although other offences could have been noted at the time.

Radar equipment operated by the RCMP is circulated from area to area throughout the province and may be used at any time.

A police spokesman warned would continue to be used in the Sidney, Colwood, Sooke, Langford, Metchison or Malahat areas for several more days.

All seven persons who appeared Wednesday were caught speeding over 40 in Metchison area. They were:

Devlyn Milward - Yates, Becher Bay, $10 and $3 costs; Allen Cosh, Metchison, $15 and $3 costs; Christian Nielson, Wootton Road, $15 and $3 costs; Gordon Gilton, 3828 Roland, $25 and $3 costs; Orrok Roberts, Park Drive, $15 and $3 costs; Bernard Whitney-Griffiths, Metchison, $15 and $3 costs; and Hector Robson, Quarantine Road, $10 and $3 costs.

All the time he was waiting for the sister to tell his sweetheart where the car was so she would come for it and find him. Instead, the sister told police. They checked the car and found it locked.

Survivor of Bridge At Official Opening

A representative of survivors of the Second Narrows Bridge collapse in 1958 will probably open the new Second Narrows Bridge on August 25, Premier Bennett indicated Wednesday.

The $23,000,000 bridge will connect Vancouver with communities on the north shore of Burrard Inlet.

Portions of the six-lane bridge collapsed during construction in June, 1958, resulting in the deaths of 18 workmen.

Mr. Bennett shook his head when asked if he or Highways Minister P. A. Aglardi would cut the ribbon.

"We hope a representative of the survivors will do that," he said.

FIRES EASING IN MANITOBA

WINNIPEG (CP) — Lower temperatures and higher humidity provided some hope Wednesday of halting forest fires sweeping northern Manitoba.

Forestry officials estimated 50,000 acres of timber and bush land have been destroyed by fires this month. Since July 2 a total of 121 forest fires have been reported.

RUSS TRAWLER 'SPY SHIP,' U.S. CHARGES

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States, smarting under Russian spy plane accusations, has struck back by charging that a Soviet espionage ship disguised as a fishing vessel came snooping within 12 miles of the mouth of Chesapeake Bay April 27.

The 600-ton trawler Vega, bristling with 11 radar and radio antennas, is the same Russian ship that was reported earlier to have spied on the nuclear submarine George Washington during exercises off Long Island, N.Y., April 26.

Battle Lines Drawn In UN on War Threat

REDS CLAIM PROOF DOWNED PLANE SPYING

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio claimed today that the Soviet government has proof to show that the American reconnaissance plane shot down July 1 invaded Soviet air space.

The English-language broadcast, beamed to North America, claimed that the RB-47 plane was equipped with guns and ammunition and was carrying "intelligence apparatus."

The broadcast seemed to indicate that the Russians had salvaged part of the RB-47 wreckage although it did not say so.

U.S. WARNING

Monroe Doctrine 'Alive'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States today again bluntly told Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to stay out of Latin-American affairs.

The state department, in a major foreign policy pronouncement cleared by the White House, declared that the Monroe Doctrine against European intervention in this hemisphere is just as alive as it ever was.

The statement struck at Khrushchev's threat to hit the United States with rockets as they were in 1923 when the doctrine was proclaimed.

"This naked menace to world peace brandished by the Soviet leader reveals the hypocrisy of his protestations in behalf of peace," the statement said.

Khrushchev, at a press conference in Moscow Tuesday, declared that the Monroe Doctrine has "died."

PRINCIPLES VALID
The U.S. statement said, "the principles of the Monroe Doctrine are as valid today as they were in 1823 when the doctrine was proclaimed."

But it said the Doctrine, proclaimed by President James Monroe, has become a hemisphere-wide policy through the Organization of American States charter and the 1947 Rio Pact in which hemisphere nations banded together against aggression.

By The Associated Press
A bitter United Nations battle between Russia and the United States seemed assured today over which of the two great powers is responsible for threatening world peace.

The issue was sharply drawn Wednesday night when President Eisenhower accepted a Soviet challenge on U.S. aircraft flights and declared his determination to make a case "on the lawless actions and reckless threats of the Soviet government."

The challenge was hurled by the Soviet government when Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko a few hours earlier demanded an emergency session of the United Nations security council. In a cable to UN headquarters in New York he charged the U.S. Air Force with aggressive activities against Russia and said they constitute a threat to the peace of the world.

WELCOMES DISCUSSION
In a statement from his vacation headquarters at Newport, R.I., Eisenhower said the U.S. is "ready and willing" to go to the security council for a full discussion of what he called the "wanton shooting down" by Russia of an RB-47 plane July 1.

About the time that the president's statement was being released at Newport, the navy said in Washington that a Russian trawler which cruised close to the Atlantic coast last April was an "electronic spy ship." (See page 32).

PRAYER FOR TODAY

For the tie that binds Thy servants in Christian love, O God, we thank Thee and ask Thee to strengthen it. Take away from us all envy and suspicion and whatever else would weaken these bonds of fellowship. As there is one body, one spirit, and one faith, one God and Father of us all, so may we henceforth be all of one heart and one soul. May we, with one mind and one voice, praise and glorify Thee; through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

225 Perish, 300 Injured In Insane Asylum Fire

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (UPI)—Fire destroyed an overcrowded insane asylum in downtown Guatemala City today, killing at least 225 persons and injuring 300 others.

The victims included 175 women and 50 men. Most were burned to death or asphyxiated.

The asylum, a government-run institution which was part of the general hospital of Guatemala City, had 1,600 mental patients. Its director,

AIR TALKS CALLED OFF

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States today called off talks scheduled to begin here Monday with Russia on a U.S.-Soviet civil air agreement because of Moscow's intensified cold war attacks on the United States.

In a note delivered to the Soviet foreign office in Moscow today, the United States said "recent Soviet actions and utterances... could not fail to affect adversely the atmosphere surrounding such negotiations at this time."

ASSASSINATION BID

Kishi Misses Serious Injury

TOKYO (AP)—A rightist fanatic stabbed Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi six times in the left thigh with a hunting knife today.

Doctors said Kishi would be out of the hospital in 10 days, and his ruling Liberal-Democratic party went ahead with plans to accept his resignation and elect Trade Minister Hayato Ikeda prime minister Friday.

Kishi was attacked at the prime minister's official residence as he drank "banzai" champagne toasts with party leaders in celebration of Ikeda's election earlier today to succeed him as party president. The party election was a preliminary to the government change which Kishi had promised after the controversial U.S.-Japan military treaty took effect last month.

DAVIS CUP DRAW

QUEBEC (CP)—The draw for the two opening singles matches of the Davis Cup tie between Canada and the United States today pitted Canada's Bob Bedard against Bernard Barten and Don Fontana against Barry MacKay. The first match is Friday afternoon.

Joe A. Campos, had been complaining for some time that it was badly overcrowded.

The blaze broke out about 1 a.m. It was believed to have started in a sewing room where one of the less seriously ill patients may have left a burning candle.

It spread rapidly and raced from one to another of the seven big wards in the 40-year-old, one-story brick and cement building with a wooden roof. It was put out about two hours after it started.

It was believed most of the patients were asleep when the fire started, but they were awakened by other patients and the cries of injured victims.

DIVIDED

Each of the wards was divided into compartments and one section was filled with the hopelessly insane.

Homes Looted in Rampage

New Congo Riots; UN Force Rushed

Belgium Relations Broken Off

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo (UPI)—Riotous mobs rampaged through the streets of Leopoldville in a new orgy of looting and shooting today.

The new rampage by rebellious Congolese soldiers and jobless natives came as the United Nations moved to send in an international military force to restore peace and it was announced that the Republic of the Congo has broken diplomatic relations with Belgium.

The first UN troops were expected here shortly, perhaps in a couple of days. But Premier Moise Tshombe of Katanga Province announced that they will not be permitted to set foot there, since he has pulled Katanga out of the Congo Republic and declared it a sovereign state.

PATROL TOGETHER

Before the new outbreak of rioting, Belgian paratroopers and loyal Congolese soldiers had patrolled the city together under a "truce" arrangement designed to protect white Europeans from marauding natives until UN help arrives.

Dr. Ralph Bunche, UN delegate to the Republic of the Congo, told newsmen here this afternoon that the UN troops would arrive in the Congo within 48 hours.

"There will be four battalions in by the end of next week," he said.

The troops will be commanded by Gen. Karl Van Horn of Sweden, presently with the UN truce supervisory organization along the Israeli borders.

Bunche said Belgian troops will be withdrawn gradually as the United Nations contingent is built up. The contingent will consist of troops from Ghana, (French) Guinea, Mali and Tunisia.

DEFENSIVE ONLY
"The troops will have only defensive weapons and their trucks and equipment will be provided by their own nations," Bunche said.

The latest violence apparently stemmed from reports that two Congolese soldiers were killed in fighting Belgian paratroopers Wednesday when the European forces seized Leopoldville and its airfield.

The rioters ran through the streets of the capital, firing in CONSTANTINE, Algeria (UPI)—At least 30 persons were injured when a terrorist grenade exploded during Bastille Day celebrations in the city square today.

Airlines Criticized

LONDON (Reuters)—Sea Lord Brabazon of Tara, flying pioneer and chairman of the air registration board, today accused U.S., Canadian and Belgian airlines of indulging in "disgraceful practices" by using highly-inflammable fuel for their jet aircraft instead of the safer, but more expensive kerosene. He did not name the lines.

Kennedy's lieutenants said that Govs. Orville L. Freeman of Minnesota, Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa and George Docking of Kansas also were "under consideration."

Kennedy's choice will be formally ratified by the delegates at tonight's convention session starting at 5 p.m. PDT.

"We shall carry the fight to the people and we shall win," the 43-year-old Kennedy said after he hurried to the convention hall to receive the adulation of a wildly cheering audience of some 19,000 persons and make a brief speech.

For Kennedy it was an easy walkway. It took 761 votes to win. Wyoming put Kennedy over the hump.

Far behind came the men who never really had a chance. Senator Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, a wizard at controlling the senate as its majority leader, couldn't control the convention.

But the tall Texan took it gracefully. He said he has accepted the decision of the convention "with all my heart."

DEMOCRATS GAVE VOTES BUT NOT THEIR HEARTS

By MAX FREEDMAN (Special to The Times)

LOS ANGELES — The nomination on the first ballot of Senator John Kennedy as the Democratic candidate for the president of the United States marks the climax of the most intensive campaign in American politics.

Four years ago, after a brief and rather haphazard campaign, he lost the vice-presidential nomination to Senator Kefauver by less than 30 votes.

He determined in the hour of defeat that he would seek the presidential nomination in 1960 and would begin to work for it immediately. His triumph on the first ballot was his deserved reward.

Senator Kennedy always told his friends that it would be easier to defeat Mr. Nixon in the presidential campaign than it would be to win the Democratic nomination.

His status as a political prophet certainly compels respect. He leaves this convention with the credentials of party leadership in his resolute hands.

What is more, he has a national organization already equipped and eager for the national campaign. These are significant assets.

Broadcast Governors Given a Rough Time

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA — The Board of Broadcast Governors underwent a baptism of fire in the Commons Wednesday with reflection on its independence and criticism of its TV licensing recommendations.

The board was given a rough mauling at the hands of Liberal and CCF speakers but Revenue Minister Nowlan, who reports to Parliament on broadcasting matters, entered a spirited defence of the two-year-old regulatory body.

Mr. Nowlan, maintaining that the board is free from political influence of any kind, found himself sharply at odds with opposition speakers on all the following charges:

1. The board's recommendation of licensing TV applicants with non-Canadian financial backing represented a departure from the principle of Canadian ownership of the air waves.

2. The board had made a dangerous departure from previous policy in recommending the licensing of a TV station controlled by the Toronto Telegram when there were non-newspaper applicants of equal merit ready to operate a Toronto outlet.

3. Political payoffs to supporters of the Progressive Conservative government seemed implicit in recommendations for the licensing of TV stations at Toronto and Halifax.

Besides these expressed and implied criticisms from Llovel Chevrier (L-Montreal Laurier) and J. W. Pickersgill (L-Bonaventure-Twillingate) the broadcasting debate during study of the BBG's 1960-61 spending plans ranged over a variety of related matters.

Mr. Pickersgill suggested the government and the board go slow on authorizing the establishment of a private television network to compete with the publicly-owned CBC whose revenues might suffer.

'Punch In the Nose' for Violators

Douglas Fisher (CCF-Port Arthur) called for a "punch on the nose" instead of a slap on the wrist for private broadcasters who break the BBG's broadcasting regulations.

Mr. Nowlan said Mr. Chevrier was misinformed in stating one-third of the ownership of the successful Ottawa applicant—E. L. Bushnell Television Company—was held by Britain's Granada TV network and National Telefilm Association Incorporated of New York. The voting-share ownership was 24.9 per cent with non-Canadian interests, below the BBG requirement of no more than 25 per cent foreign ownership.

Both Mr. Chevrier and Mr. Pickersgill repeatedly referred to Conservative connections of those recommended for licensing—Finlay Macdonald of radio station CJCH who is concerned in the Halifax application and the Toronto Telegram in Toronto.

Mr. Nowlan categorically denied their implication of a political payoff, arguing their suggestion wouldn't hold water since unsuccessful applicants in Edmonton and Ottawa included prominent Conservatives — among them M. Grattan O'Leary, president of the Ottawa Journal.

Mr. Nowlan agreed that too much newspaper control of information media is undesirable but rejected any suggestion this should bar newspapers from ever getting TV licences.

A federal-provincial program to assist Canada's marginal farming areas was urged Wednesday by the special Senate committee on land use.

"There is a need of elimination of problem areas in Canada where farm businesses are small, productivity low and incomes inadequate for family requirements," the committee said in a report tabled in the Senate.

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—Peter Ho, of Dartmouth, captured the 72-hole Nova Scotia amateur golf championship Wednesday with an eight-over-par 290. Veteran Rex Joudrey, of Halifax, was second with 285.

Canada Demands Veto On A-Arms Use—PM

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker indicated today in the Commons that Canada must have a veto over use of American nuclear warheads on Canadian soil before it will accept them in this country.

He said Canada is asking the United States for the same right of joint control as the United Kingdom has in connection with American nuclear warheads stored in Britain.

Replying to Opposition Leader Pearson and CCF House leader Hazen Argue, the prime minister said that if and when nuclear weapons are acquired for Canadian forces they will not be used "except as the Canadian government decides and in the manner approved by the Canadian government."

RETAIN OWNERSHIP

He said such an arrangement with the U.S. would constitute "joint control" because the U.S. would retain ownership of the warheads and their use would require the authorization of the U.S. president.

Mr. Diefenbaker mentioned "joint control" for the first time July 6. Before that he had referred only to "Canadian control."

Today he again used the phrase "joint control."

The prime minister said "joint control" would be consistent with the view he expressed in the Commons Feb. 20, 1959, that the spread of nuclear weapons should be limited.

Mr. Argue asked whether the government has considered keeping nuclear weapons out of Canada.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the conditions under which joint control could be achieved would have to be determined first. When that point was reached, the international situation, which now was "very grave," would have to be considered.

U.S. Defence Secretary Thomas Gates told a press conference here Wednesday following a two-day meeting of the Canada-U.S. cabinet defence committee that arrangements for provision of American nuclear warheads for Canadian Bomarc bases should be completed by the time the sites are ready.

The sites for the anti-aircraft missile are scheduled to be ready late next year but the bases are not expected to become operational until 1962 or perhaps 1963.

Mr. Gates said he assumes there could be "dual" Canada-U.S. control similar to Anglo-American control over American nuclear weapons based in the United Kingdom.

But he also said that American nuclear weapons must remain under U.S. control. Firing of these weapons could be done only by order of the U.S. president.

The prime minister of Canada "would of course be consulted," he added after some prompting by his cabinet colleague, Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson.

WEDDING DATE CHANGES DOG'S DAY IN COURT

Miss Carol Grund's dog will have its day, but not next Monday.

Miss Grund was charged in city police court with having a biting dog, and prosecutor T. P. O'Grady suggested a remand to Monday, when his witnesses would be available.

Said Miss Grund, demurely, "but I'm getting married Monday."

Said Magistrate William Ostler: "That would be an unsuitable day."

So Miss Grund's dog's day in court will be July 28.

... HERE AND THERE ... With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Premier Bennett says he wishes election speculators would let him know when they've made up their minds on a date.

Well—a city taxi driver tells me he has decided on Sept. 6. Why? Because the premier will be 60 on that day and he likes anniversaries and round figures.

So does Fred Popham, the taxi driver. He will be 60 on Sept. 6, too.

Just back from a visit to Blighty, John L. Hughes recalls a London sightseeing tour in which the guide said: "We are now passing the oldest tavern in London."

"Why?" asked a voice from the back of the coach.

"Why are there only two women in the B.C. Legislature?" asks Mrs. E. H. Parker visiting here from her home in Olympic, Washington.

Mrs. Parker maintains at least one-quarter of any parliament should be composed of women.

"I have heard some of our male legislators arguing about housekeeping costs and proving how little they know about them."

Of course! They only provide the costs.

Evening Glory: A biblical "burning bush" in Beacon Hill Park. The effect is created by a red lamp shining up through a Japanese plum tree.

Austria offers a pleasant contrast to Italy, says George I. Warren in a letter from Innsbruck.

"The houses are all clean and newly painted, the people more courteous and English is much better understood."

Mr. and Mrs. Warren are continuing their European journey through Germany, Belgium and Holland en route to England and home to Victoria.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Offbeat excuses are common in traffic courts, but this one was further off than most:

Stopped by a motorcycle policeman for driving through a stop sign, Gerald M. Riddings, 944 Darwin, was quoted as saying, "I've got a sore foot and it hurt when I put it on the brake."

Riddings, who pleaded not guilty to the charge, was found guilty and fined $10 in city police court today.

He said his first stab at the brake hurt his broken toe, so he drove past the sign and braked again some 15-20 feet away from it, well into the intersection.

For not carrying his vehicle registration in a conspicuous place he was fined another $10.

A "boots and saddle" barn dance sponsored by the Victoria Riding Academy Club will be held at the Saanichton Agricultural Hall Saturday, July 23, from 9 p.m. to midnight.

The Rodeo Rascals will be featured and the dance is open to the public.

Refreshments will be available.

Tickets can be obtained from club members or at the Agricultural Hall prior to the dance.

New passenger car registrations in June last numbered 4,243 as against 4,715 in June last year, the B.C. Motor Vehicle Branch revealed today.

Total registrations from January to June this year were 17,673 as against 18,537 for the corresponding period in 1959.

Capt. W. G. Beachum, Cmdr. John C. Haynie, and Cmdr. P. H. Spears, staff officers from the U.S. naval shipyard at Bremerton, are at HMC Dockyard today for a series of meetings with staff officers of the flag officer, Pacific Coast.

Capt. L. L. Atwood, director of naval intelligence at Ottawa Headquarters, is visiting the RCN Pacific Command this week for talks with staff officers.

He is a former chief of staff to the flag officer, Pacific Coast.

Weather here will continue with sunshine and cloud bands but there is still no sign of rain, weatherman Bill Mackie said today.

While there has been "spotty" rain on the island's northwest coast, with storm activity in the Pacific, there is little chance of Victoria being touched by the storm fringe.

Last measurable rain here was June 19, though such extended dry periods are common for this time of year.

Jackson Filtness, 17, of 1718 Fort, was recovering today in St. Joseph's Hospital from head injuries sustained when the bicycle he was riding collapsed under him on Belleville Street.

A telegraph boy, he was thrown to the pavement when his front wheel buckled. He struck his head on a curb.

He was unconscious for about 10 minutes while being taken to hospital by city police.

Oak Bay Social Credit League will nominate candidates for the next provincial election at a meeting in the municipal hall July 28.

Only Sacred candidate to come forward for nomination so far is Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay.

Films and live entertainment will be presented at a Scottish Night performance Friday at 8 p.m. in Beacon Hill Park produced by Victoria and District Film Council and sponsored by B.C. Electric.

Artists will be The Highland Willies and Adeline Duncan's Scottish Dancers. Films will be The Heart Is Highland and The Royal Visit.

The old street car tracks on Johnson Street bridge will be removed this fall, city engineer's department reported today.

Eastbound traffic will be detoured over the Point Ellice Bridge during the project.

KIM OK NYUN
... care at last.

$15 MONTHLY

City Pair 'Adopt' Korea Girl

Mr. and Mrs. K. O. Henderson, 193 Werra Road, have "adopted" an eight-year-old Korean girl, Kim Ok Nyun, through the Foster Parents' Plan Inc., Montreal.

They have pledged $15 monthly for the child, $8 of which goes in a cash grant and the remainder administered by the plan to purchase clothing and other necessities.

Ok Nyun, a clever, cute little girl whose ambition is to become a school teacher, was born during Korea's war years and is one of six, supported entirely by the widowed mother.

Several Victoria families have taken part in the adoption plan since it was first popularized here in the Times earlier this year.

611 Respond To Anti-Polio Shot Appeal

Some 611 persons turned out for Salk anti-polio inoculations Wednesday afternoon at the city health centre — 10 times the normal number.

The rush followed publication in The Times a warning by medical spokesmen that polio could make a big comeback this year because it is at a peak in a recurring cycle.

More than 50 British Columbians have been hit by the disease so far this year, five of them in this area. There have been four deaths.

"Things certainly boomed here yesterday," said Victoria-Esquamalt medical health officer Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy. "We expect another big rush this afternoon when the regular inoculation clinic is held for pre-school children."

"I hope this turnout will continue until we have everyone protected in Victoria. We are giving all the different inoculations at the free clinics but I would like to emphasize again that a person is not protected until the third inoculation and may still need a booster."

The old street car tracks on Johnson Street bridge will be removed this fall, city engineer's department reported today.

Eastbound traffic will be detoured over the Point Ellice Bridge during the project.

City 'Dirtier Than New York' Says Much-Travelled Diplomat

Downtown Victoria is dirtier than downtown New York and probably is the dirtiest city centre in the world, City Hall was told today by an internationally-eminent Canadian who has seen most of the globe.

The scathing attack on Victoria's smog problem was made by Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, chairman of B.C. Hydro, who said he could not understand why the city failed to do something about it.

He made the complaint, and tangled with the city's part-time smoke inspector, as a private citizen in a letter to public works chairman Ad. Geoffrey Edgelow which was revealed at a committee meeting.

The internationally-known Canadian diplomat, scientist and soldier who lived in New York the past nine years as director-general of the United Nations' technical assistance administration, wrote:

"Prior to coming to Victoria 10 months ago, I always thought that New York was the dirtiest city in which I had ever lived."

"On the basis of this 10 months' experience, I have had to change my mind: downtown Victoria is considerably dirtier than downtown New York."

Referring to newspaper reports, Dr. Keenleyside noted that the city's smoke abatement advisory committee was organized only last year after a public outcry although it was to have been set up eight years ago when the anti-smoke by-law was passed.

"I hope that it will not take another eight years to get the device that will solve the situation provided it isn't too costly."

Ald. Edgelow said a private citizen had approached him with an invention that he claimed would cut down output of smoke and cinders from industrial chimneys.

"I immediately referred him to one of the sawmill managers and the device will be studied by their engineers."

Second Home-Brew Charge Laid Against Victoria Hotel Keeper

Victoria hotelkeeper Harold Stanley Holben, 1312 Government, was charged in city police court today for the second time in a month in connection with making homebrew beer for sale.

Fined $300 June 29 for keeping liquor for sale in violation of the B.C. Liquor Act, Holben pleaded guilty today to making beer without a valid permit, contrary to the Federal Excise Tax Act, and was fined $50 and $350 costs.

After a city policeman bought a dozen bottles of beer from Holben, city police and the RCMP raided his hotel premises June 26, turning up the following:

Fifty-two gallons of beer, two 18-gallon pots, one containing a beer mash; heating apparatus for fermentation, plastic hose, five pounds of sugar, a bottle capper and caps, 500 empty pint bottles, 70 quart bottles and a number of large jugs.

Cons. Evanson said Holben had a permit allowing him to manufacture beer for himself and family, but with the conviction for selling it, the permit was rendered invalid.

Police took a sample of the beer and mash for analysis and destroyed the rest, Cons. H. D. Evanson told the court.

The analysis showed the beer to have 15.1 per cent proof spirits — higher than commercial beer — and 11.7 per cent proof spirits in the beer mash.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. There seem to be lots of poodles in Victoria. Where did the breed originate? P.T.

A. In Germany in the 1500s. Poodles have a wide range of color and size. They may be black, white, blue, gray, brown or apricot and weigh from seven to 55 pounds.

Q. Why is a pintail duck called by that name? F.R.T.

A. The name comes from the long, pointed middle feathers of the duck's tail.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the question along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times," Editor, Questions and Answers, will be published daily.

Kerr Turns Back Defending Champ

Two Victorians moved into the semifinals of the B.C. Amateur golf championships today at Uplands Golf Club. City champion Laurie Kerr defeated PNGA winner and defending titleholder, Ron Willey of Vancouver, 4 and 2, and 17-year-old Dickie Munn of Cedar Hill defeated Frank Scrogg of the host club, 6 and 5.

Kerr meets Bud Bird of Vancouver in Friday's semifinals while Munn meets Joe Jeroski, also of Vancouver.

Bird eliminated John Merriman of Gorge Vale, 3 and 1, while Jeroski defeated Bob Plommer of Vancouver, 4 and 3.

Seamen's Strike Spreads In Britain

LONDON (Reuters) — A seamen's strike spread throughout ports today, leaving at least 40 ships idle. About 2,500 men were believed to have joined the wildcat walkout started by stewards in Liverpool nine days ago to back demands for more pay and shorter hours.

HOMES LOOTED

New Congo Riots, UN Force Rushed

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo (UPI) — Riotous mobs rampaged through the streets of Leopoldville in a new orgy of looting and shooting today.

The new rampage by rebellious Congolese soldiers and jobless natives came as the United Nations moved to send in an international military force to restore peace and it was announced that the Republic of the Congo has broken diplomatic relations with Belgium.

The first UN troops were expected here shortly, perhaps in a couple of days. But Premier Moise Tshombe of Katanga Province announced that they will not be permitted to set foot there, since he has pulled Katanga out of the Congo Republic and declared it a sovereign state.

PATROL TOGETHER

Before the new outbreak of rioting, Belgian paratroopers and loyal Congolese soldiers had patrolled the city together under a "truce" arrangement designed to protect white Europeans from marauding natives until UN help arrives.

Dr. Ralph Bunche, UN delegate to the Republic of the Congo, told newsmen here this afternoon that the UN troops would arrive in the Congo within 48 hours.

"There will be four battalions in by the end of next week," he said.

The troops will be commanded by Gen. Karl Van Horn of Sweden, presently with the UN truce supervisory organization along the Israeli borders.

Bunche said Belgian troops will be withdrawn gradually as the United Nations contingent is built up. The contingent will consist of troops from Ghana, (French) Guinea, Mali and Tunisia.

"The troops will have only defensive weapons and their trucks and equipment will be provided by their own nations," Bunche said.

The latest violence apparently stemmed from resentment over news that two Congolese soldiers were killed in fighting Belgian paratroopers Wednesday when the European forces seized Leopoldville and its airfield.

The rioters ran through the streets of the capital, firing in

REDS CLAIM PROOF DOWNED PLANE SPYING

LONDON (AP) — Moscow radio claimed today that the Soviet government has proof to show that the American reconnaissance plane shot down July 1 invaded Soviet air space.

The English-language broadcast, beamed to North America, claimed that the RB-47 plane was equipped with guns and ammunition and was carrying "intelligence apparatus."

The broadcast seemed to indicate that the Russians had salvaged part of the RB-47 wreckage although it did not say so.

U.S. WARNING

Monroe Doctrine 'Alive'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States today again bluntly told Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to stay out of Latin American affairs.

The state department, in a major foreign policy pronouncement cleared by the White House, declared that the Monroe Doctrine against European intervention in this hemisphere is just as alive as it ever was.

The statement struck at Khrushchev's threat to hit the United States with rockets if this country tried armed aggression in Cuba.

"This naked menace to world peace brandished by the Soviet leader reveals the hypocrisy of his protestations in behalf of peace," the statement said.

Khrushchev, at a press conference in Moscow Tuesday, declared that the Monroe Doctrine has "died."

PRINCIPLES VALID

The U.S. statement said, "the principles of the Monroe Doctrine are as valid today as they were in 1823 when the doctrine was proclaimed."

But it said the Doctrine, proclaimed by President James Monroe, has become a hemisphere-wide policy through the Organization of American States charter and the 1947 Rio Pact in which hemisphere nations banded together against aggression.

EASY WIN ON FIRST BALLOT

Canada Ready To Give Help In Congo Crisis

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today the government has agreed to transfer two Canadian officers from the United Nations Emergency Force in the Middle East to help with administrative problems in the Congo.

He also told the Commons the government is "responding favorably" to suggestions that Canada supply RCAF planes, now serving the emergency force on the Israeli-Arab border, for transport duty in the newly-independent country, a former Belgian colony.

His announcements were welcomed by opposition party leaders.

The prime minister said that Canada also "may be able to make an effective contribution" to the new republic in supplying food supplies. The government was ready to consider any request along this line from the United Nations.

Kennedy's lieutenants said that Govs. Orville L. Freeman of Minnesota, Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa and George Docking of Kansas also were "under consideration."

"WE SHALL WIN"

Kennedy's choice will be formally ratified by the delegates at tonight's convention session starting at 5 p.m. PDT.

"We shall carry the fight to the people and we shall win," the 43-year-old Kennedy said after he hurried to the convention hall to receive the adulation of a wildly cheering audience of some 19,000 persons and make a brief speech.

For Kennedy it was an easy walkaway.

Airlines Criticized

LONDON (Reuters) — Lord Brabazon of Tara, flying pioneer and chairman of the air-registration board, today accused U.S., Canadian and Belgian airlines of indulging in "disgraceful practices" by using highly-inflammable fuel for their jet aircraft instead of the safer but more expensive kerosene. He did not name the lines.

One thing about it, when they're callin' each other names, they ain't fightin'.

Anybody want a slightly used Stevenson button?

Scenes of Terror At Guatemala

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (UPI) — Fire destroyed an overcrowded insane asylum in downtown Guatemala City today, killing at least 225 persons and injuring 300 others.

The victims included 175 women and 50 men. Most were burned to death or asphyxiated.

The asylum, a government-owned institution which was part of the general hospital of Guatemala City, had 1,600 mental patients. Its director, Jose A. Campos, had been complaining for some time that it was badly overcrowded.

The blaze broke out about 1 a.m. It was believed to have started in a sewing room where one of the less seriously ill patients may have left a burning candle. It spread rapidly and raced from one to another of the seven big wards in the 40-year-old, one-story, brick and concrete building with a wooden roof. It was put out about two hours after it started.

Most of Patients Were Asleep

It was believed most of the patients were asleep when the fire started, but they were awakened by other patients and the cries of injured victims.

Each of the wards was divided into compartments and one section was filled with the hopelessly insane.

The institution was run by Roman Catholic nuns, and was manned by male and female nurses and doctors. As a security measure, the lay staff slept in quarters near the wards.

Only the night shift was on when the fire was discovered about 30 minutes after it started. Nurses, doctors and nuns promptly went into action to rescue their charges when the blaze started.

Many of those saved fought their rescuers in terror. Some had to be put in straitjackets before they could be taken out of the flaming building.

All those rescued were outside the special security compartments, where inmates could not be reached as the flames leaped forward.

The night staff made the first rescues and soon were joined by other doctors and nurses who rushed to the scene.

Within a short time, about 150 firemen, 100 policemen and dozens of civilian helpers were engaged in the rescue battle.

They first saved about 50 children, all that were in the asylum.

Then they started moving the other patients, progressively from one ward to another as the flames spread with alarming speed. Finally, they moved all the patients they could into the street.

Those rescued were put in buses and taken to nearby public buildings and to the nearby general hospital which already was jammed with 3,000 patients.

Kishi Misses Serious Injury

TOKYO (AP) — A rightist fanatic stabbed Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi six times in the left thigh with a hunting knife today.

Bleeding profusely, Kishi was taken to a nearby hospital. A secretary said he was cracking jokes with visitors within an hour. One of his doctors said neither the artery nor the sciatic nerve were hit.

Police arrested the assailant, Daisuke Arimaki, 65, a member of the far-rightist group.

By MAX FREEDMAN
(Special to The Times)

LOS ANGELES — The nomination on the first ballot of Senator John Kennedy as the Democratic candidate for the president of the United States marks the climax of the most intensive campaign in American politics.

Four years ago, after a brief and rather haphazard campaign, he lost the vice-presidential nomination to Senator Kefauver by less than 30 votes. He determined in the hour of defeat that he would seek the presidential nomination in 1960 and would begin to work for it immediately. His triumph on the first ballot was his deserved reward.

Senator Kennedy always told his friends that it would be easier to defeat Mr. Nixon in the presidential campaign than it would be to win the Democratic nomination.

His status as a political prophet certainly compels respect. He leaves this convention with the credentials of party leadership in his resolute hands.

What is more, he has a national organization already equipped and eager for the national campaign. These are significant assets.

Yet Senator Kennedy even in his moment of triumph has reason for uneasiness. He can sense that he has won the votes but not the hearts of the delegates. His nomination was received with less than overwhelming enthusiasm. He has a genius for winning elections and that is why he has become the presidential candidate; but he has not yet touched the generous emotions

By The Associated Press

A bitter United Nations battle between Russia and the United States seemed assured today over which of two great powers is responsible for threatening world peace.

The issue was sharply drawn Wednesday night when President Eisenhower accepted a Soviet challenge on U.S. aircraft flights and declared his determination to make a case "on the lawless actions and reckless threats of the Soviet government."

The challenge was hurled by the Soviet government when Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko a few hours earlier demanded an emergency session of the United Nations security council. In a cable to UN headquarters in New York he charged the U.S. Air Force with aggressive activities against Russia and said they constitute a threat to the peace of the world.

In a statement from his vacation headquarters at Newport, R.I., Eisenhower said the U.S. is "ready and willing" to go to the security council for a full discussion of what he called the "wanton shooting down" by Russia of an RB-47 plane July 1.

About the time that the president's statement was being released at Newport, the navy said in Washington that a Russian trawler which cruised close to the Atlantic coast last April was an "electronic spy ship." (See page 32).

THE WINNER!

Smiling Senator John Fitzgerald Kennedy made his way into Los Angeles Sports Arena shortly before midnight Wednesday to be presented to cheering convention delegates who an hour before had chosen him to be the Democratic standard-bearer in the November presidential elections.

... KISHI

The attack on Kishi occurred just a month after another rightist stabbed and injured a prominent socialist, Jotaro Kawakami, near the parliament building. The two attacks aroused fears that Japan is in for a revival of pre-war terrorism in which the notorious rightist "black dragon" society played a leading role.

Kishi is the fourth Japanese prime minister of the 20th century to be a terrorist victim. The others were Takashi Hara, fatally stabbed in 1921; Yuko Hamaguchi, wounded in 1930; and Tsuyoshi Inukai, assassinated by rebellious army officers in 1932.
